GEN. WU HAS SURROUNDED PEKING

RUSSIA IS EXPECTED TO ACCEPT PROGRAM ON RECONSTRUCTION

WILL INTERPOSE OBJECTIONS REGARDING SOME OF DETAILS.

PROPERTY RESTORATION IS MOST OBJECTIONABLE.

French Delegation is Waiting For a Decision at the Paris Conference.

By Associated Press.

GENOA, May 4.—The soviet representatives here announced today that the terms of the allied note to Russia had been telegraphed to Moscow, says the Exchange Telegraph which adds:

"It is stated that possibly Premier Lenine will accept, demanding simultaneously full recognition."

GENOA, May 4.—Soviet Russia's delegates are expected to accept in general the reconstruction program framed by the powers, although interposing suggestions regarding its details.

The main sources of objection by the Russians are the failure to include recognition of the soviet government and the article regarding restoration of private property owned by foreigners in Russia or the compensation of the owners.

Another point of issue likely to be raised concerns the suppression of revolutionary propaganda by the bolsheviki.

The French delegation is waiting for a decision at the Paris conference between M. Barthou, head of the delegation, and Premier Poincare, on the Russian question and the question of German reparations.

Meanwhile the Frenchmen express the opinion that whatever the Russians do about the allies' memorandum there will be no immediate recognition of the soviet. On the other hand Mr. Lloyd George says that a non-aggression pact to be effective must include Russia and her inclusion must be preceded by an arrangement with the powers concerning her reconstruction.

Indications are that the conference will mark time for several days while the final names are being prepared by the chief actors. The younger attaches of the Italian secretariat have invited Mr. Lloyd George to a mountain trip and picnic.

NON-AGGRESSION PACT APPROVED BY FRANCE

PARIS, May 4.—The French cabinet this afternoon approved the text of the proposed non-aggression pact under consideration at Genoa with the reservation that it must not be interpreted as withdrawing from France any rights she has under treaties.

The ministers spent the entire morning session of the cabinet in studying the text of the pact originally proposed by Prime Minister Lloyd George and brought to Paris by M. Barthou, head of the French delegation at Genoa.

It was deemed necessary to make reservations regarding the rights of France to make use of prerogatives of the treaty of Versailles for the military occupation of German territory for the nonpayment of reparations.

GERMAN EDITOR DOES NOT EXPECT TANGIBLE RESULTS

BERLIN, May 4.—Tangible results which can be set down in black and white will hardly be forthcoming at the Genoa conference in the opinion of Theodore Wolff, editor in chief of the Berliner Tageblatt. He believes the conference will "fade away like the evening glow." If no decision is arrived at, he writes, one of two things is very likely to occur:

"Either all governments, big and little, will fall in line and conclude individual treaties with soviet Russia or the world will see the inauguration of a policy of aggression in the east which will be led by France and supported by Polish enthusiasm.

"He believes most of the governments represented at Genoa will prefer the first eventuality.

NOT VIOLATION OF TREATY OF VERSAILLES

By Associated Press.

PARIS, May 4.—The allied reparations commission it was officially announced this evening, has failed to find that the Rapallo treaty between Germany and Russia was a violation of the treaty of Versailles.

The commission's decision contained a note which was forwarded to Germany this evening. The note points out that the commission assumes that Germany has not given up under the treaty any rights to property upon which the allies have first lien and warns Germany that the commission will watch closely that the Rapolla treaty does not interfere with the fulfillment of the treaty of Versailles.

ANNOUNCE SUPPORT OF BELGIUM IN PROTEST

GENOA, May 4.—France's decision to support the opposition of Belgium to the private property clause of the memorandum sent the Russians was announced today by the French delegation here, on receipt of official information from Paris.

It was announced that Vice Premier Barthou would hasten his return to Genoa, arriving Saturday or Sunday.

HARDING MAY TAKE A FIRM STAND ON WORLD PROBLEMS

COULD LAY DOWN RULES ON THE RECONSTRUCTION OF EUROPE.

WOULD BE HANDICAPPED BY A HOSTILE SENATE

Members of Upper House Have Slogan Which Means "Stay Out of Europe."

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.
(Copyright, 1922, by the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The desirability and indeed the inevitableness of the Harding administration talking some affirmative step about Europe of the sort indicated by recent public actions can be illustrated by the analogy to recent events here in the United States just about a year ago business prosperity in the United States was at its lowest ebb, and every indication pointed towards a serious crash. The prices of farm goods were lower than at any time for thirty years and there were stagnation and discontent of an acutely alarming kind.

SULLIVAN.

If this condition had been left alone, and if the normal phenomena sure to arise from such a condition had been permitted to take their course, certain things would have followed as surely as May follows April. Great numbers of farm mortgages would have been foreclosed and many farmers would have passed through bankruptcy. Banks to a number that might well have run into thousands would have closed, to the immediate distress not only of borrowers but of depositors and stockholders. The resulting calamity to businessmen, to the railroads, to labor and to every variety of business would have been such that it would be difficult to overstate it.

But the condition was not permitted to continue to its normal sequence of calamity. Able men within the government laid hands on it. Prompt and energetic action was taken. Money was made available by congress, and an agency of the treasury in the shape of the war finance corporation was directed to make use of the money. In the communities most acutely affected loans were made with stern safeguards for security and contingent on the raising of more money by the local bankers and others and on other stern conditions laid down by the federal government. As a result, this dangerous condition was alleviated. It may require some imagination to realize the contrast between what is and what would have been, but the far[illegible] and bankers and the commu[illegible]es that were involved r[illegible]ze it [illegible].

Now, the p[illegible]t condition of Europe present[illegible]omplete analogy. That condition [illegible] not only responsible for m[illegible]hat is wrong in America and [illegible] world, [illegible]ut contains the mena[illegible] of wor[illegible] things yet. The case i[illegible]re con[illegible]x than American agricult[illegible] depression of a year ago. Ne[illegible]as it is merely a problem a[illegible]loes not defy solution.

The ability an[illegible]s resources which enabled the [illegible]ernment to work a cure in An[illegible]a can also work a cure of the la[illegible]t problem. The Harding administr[illegible]n and especially the treasury [illegible]nt, contains an extraordinary amount of business talent. What they do not already have they can command. America can save Europe and the world from chaos.

The fact that America is the richest and most powerful of the nations gives America both the duty and the capacity to act.

America is in a position to dictate whatever this country deems to be necessary on the part of others. What America names as the price of help will be agreed to. The call to America is clear.

We can ignore this call and let things go on to something worse, or we can heed it. In the matters affecting Europe and ourselves, we can lay down as concrete a program of definite actions required as Hughes laid down about naval armament. In the same words that Hughes used, we can say of ourselves that "America proposes" to do such and such; and of the other nations we can say "America proposes" that each nation take the steps we deem necessary about currency, about external debts, about armies, and about all the other elements of the problem.

Such proceedure might seem arbitrary in tone; but so was the concrete method adopted by Mr. Hughes about naval armament. Any arbitrariness in the method is justified by the beneficence of the results.

As to most of the steps that the administration may be disposed to take about Europe, Harding will be handicapped by the fact that there is an element in the senate whose slogan is "stay out of Europe." This element succeeded in putting into one of the acts passed some time ago a provision to the effect that no official American representative can be put on the reparations commission, or any other commission arising out of the Paris treaties, except with the consent of the senate.

Because of this it will be necessary to act largely through such unofficial agencies as the recent appointment of J. P. Morgan and the head of one of the reserve banks to the reparations commission. In matters involving money, any action by America will have to be achieved through private bankers acting in understanding with the government.

CARL PARKER IS HANGED FOR THE CONROY MURDER

REQUEST FROM FEDERAL JUDGE TO DELAY CAME TOO LATE.

ELEVENTH HOUR EFFORT OF HIS ATTORNEYS FAILS

Parker Was Convicted of the Murder of a Houston Rent Car Driver.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, May 4.—Carl Parker was hanged at the Harris county jail at 11:16 o'clock this morning. The doomed man, convicted of killing Mordis Conroy, Houston rent car driver, went to his death bravely.

"I am not showing any white feather and I'm not afraid to go," he told reporters a few hours before he walked up the scaffold.

The trap was sprung by Sheriff T. A. Binford. It lacked just six days of being one year since Sheriff Binford hanged H. L. Walker.

Attorneys made an eleventh hour attempt to stay the execution of Parker by applying to the federal court for a writ of habeas corpus. Consideration of the application was reached in court at 11:23 a. m., seven minutes after the trap had been sprung.

"I cannot issue a writ of habeas corpus for a dead man," Judge J. C. Hutcheson said in denying the application.

Parker was taken from the death cell at 11:11 a. m. His atttorneys appeared in federal court shortly after 11 o'clock asking Judge Hutcheson to issue awrit of habeas corpus on the ground that women had been purposely excluded from service on the jury which had convicted Parker.

The federal judge requested the marshal to ask Sheriff Binford to delay the execution.

A telephone call to the county jail at 11:22 a. m. elicited the information from the sheriff that the trap had been sprung at 11:16 a. m.

Judge Hutcheson thereupon dismissed consideration of the application and Parker's attoneys withdrew.

Parker admitted shooting Condoy and claimed self defense but was found guilty.

Parker has been stoically awaiting his fate. He has been in jail for 14 months.

He requested that his body be sent to his former home, Washburn, W. Va., where his parents reside.

He has a wife and a 10-year-old daughter here.

MAJOR THOMPSON TESTIFIES AT TRIAL OF WILLIAM BLIZZARD

CHARLESTOWN, W. VA., May 4.—Major Charles F. Thompson, U. S. A., testified at the treason trial of William Blizzard today that after men behind the miners' fighting lines had disregarded his reading of a presidential proclamation, August 21, 1921, he reported troops were needed. Between 2,000 and 2,500 troops were sent, he said.

On cross-examination of Major Thomas it was brought out that Blizzard, whom a former witness said had been on the march on August 27, went that day with the witness, Brigadier General Bankhols and others to learn whether miners were returning home after the first march.

Major Charles G. Smart, who commanded some of the federal troops that put an end to fighting on the Logan border, testified that Blizzard appeared to have more authority over the miners than any other person in the vicinity of Sharples. For that reason when he wanted anything done he went to Blizzard and when Blizzard gave orders to the miners they were obeyed without question, he said.

GEN. CHANG'S ARMY SCATTERED; ALL RAILROAD TRAFFIC OUT OF THE CITY HAS BEEN SUSPENDED

By Associated Press.

These developments followed the dispatch of eight train loads of Chang Tso-Lin's soldiers eastward (in the direction of Tientsin).

Admiral Strauss, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, has arranged to leave Peking for Tientsin in an automobile.

American official telegrams state that the Chi Li forces after turning General Chang's right flank and defeating him at Chang Sing Tin, reoccupied Machang, having defeated Chang's army on the middle front. The objective of the Mukden general's troops in Chang Sin Tin appeared to be complete, it was added.

MAKES ANOTHER EFFORT TO END WAR IN CHINA

By Associated Press.

PEKING, May 4.—President Hsu Shih Chang made another effort today to end hostilities between the armies of General Chang Tso Lin, military governor of Mukden, and General Wu Pei Fu, military leader of Central China, who are fighting for the control of Peking. President Hsu after a meeting of the cabinet sent telegrams to both generals appealing to them to consider the welfare of China and end their war.

The telegram called attention to three notes handed to the Chinese government by the foreign representatives here protesting against the fighting in the vicinity of Peking and warning of the serious consequence to China should foreigners suffer from the hostilities.

"As the diplomatic body has given three warnings to the government regarding the present war," the telegrams read, "the rival leaders should set aside their personal differences and strive to live up to the expectations of the powers. As both leaders favor unification of the north and south, they should suspend the war at once."

The cabinet at its session also discussed the financial situation of the government. It was disclosed that the tota lresources of the Peking administration are now about 150,000 silver dollars monthly, a sum scarcely sufficient to pay the expenses of the city of Peking.

Owing to the hostilities almost all the plans regarding China made at the Washington conference have been suspended. The Chinese officials appointed to take over the British naval base at Wei Hai Wei has suggested a postponement of the date of assumption and the Chinese commission which was to have met a similar Japanese body to arrange for the restitution of Shantung has also deferred this meeting.

Likewise all the international commissions which were arranged at Washington to consider Chinese customs, the extra-territorial system and the withdrawal of foreign troops have suspended their plan to convene in China in the immediate future.

Most of the Chinese newspapers decry the fighting which they declare harmful to the country whichever side wins. They assert that China will never be prosperous until freed of military leaders.

MARLIN SCENE OF OIL EXCITEMENT A RESULT DISCOVERY

MARLIN, TEXAS, May 4.—The Gray Brothers and Hennessy well seven miles west of Marlin, known as "Lucky Thirteen," from the fact that it was spudded in on the 13th of April, being 13 lights on the derrick and with 13 entering the operations several times, struck oil last Sunday at 3 a. m., and the owners who maintain quarters at Marlin were immediately notified, investigation made and operations shut down preparatory to bringing in the well.

The oil was struck at 1040 feet and stands 408 feet in the hole and is estimated at 100 to 200 barrel well.

Great excitement prevailed Sunday and crowds of people flocked to the scene convinced that it was really an oil well.

Many oil men are coming to Marlin to investigate, as it is only a 20 minutes drive to the well and fine hotels and boarding houses are here. Marlin is well prepared to take care of thousands of people who will be flocking to this entirely new field, which is believed will be one of the best shallow fields in the country

GRISWOLD COMPANY GETS 200 BARRELER IN 1900 FOOT SAND

The Griswold Oil company's No 23 well on the Burnett tract in the Electra pool encountered the 1900 foot sand Wednesday and is reported good for 200 barrels. The well is being cleaned out preparatory to drilling in This test is practically an offset to the Beasley-McDaniel well, also producing from this depth, which is on the north line of the lease.

Casing has also been set on the No. 24 on the same sand, which will be drilled later in the week.

STOP, LOOK, LISTEN URGED AS SOLUTION TO AUTO ACCIDENTS

CHICAGO, May 4.—In addressing the safety section of the American Railway association here today, C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central railroad, declared the correct solution of the problem of reducing grade crossing accidents is the cooperation of the public with the railroads in bringing pressure to bear upon all drivers of motor vehicles to "Stop, look and listen." He urged the passage by communities and state of ordinances and laws calculated to enforce this rule.

Mr. Markham had figures showing that in the last 30 years crossings fatal injuries increased 354 per cent. In the same period non-fatal injuries increased 682 per cent, while the population of the United States increased only 68 per cent

"In 1920, (the last year for which we have complete returns) 1,791 persons were killed and 5,077 persons were injured in grade crossing accidents and 76 per cent of the deaths and injuries resulted from automobile accidents. There were more than 3,000 automobiles struck on crossings," he said, adding, "it would cost $13,000,000,000 to elevate the grade crossing all over the United States."

"The difference between the government and the oil companies which existed over fixing of the values of the classes in petroleum upon which taxation is based in the only remaining issue and this should be agreed upon in the near future."

A number of friends called at Mrs Bean's Wednesday to see Miss Wurtsbaugh, some having attended college at Kidd-Key or at Columbia university with her, and were very much disappointed to find she had gone. They will be glad to know, however, that she expects to return here for a longer visit at her first opportunity. Miss Wurtsbaugh, who is secretary of the Texas Poets association, is associate professor in the English department of John Tarleton, doing her "verse making" on the side.

DOCTOR ORDERED WOMAN OBEYED

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and is Now Well

Chicago, Illinois. — "You surely give women one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby I was all run down and so nervous it kept me from gaining. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all Lydia E. Pinkham babies. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world." — Mrs. ADERTH TOMSHECK, 10657 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

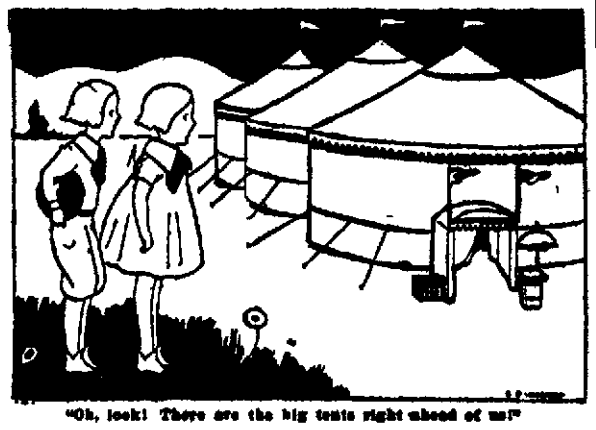
There is nothing very strange about the doctor directing Mrs. Tomsheck to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There are many physicians who do recommend it and highly appreciate its value.

Women who are nervous, run down, and suffering from women's ailments should give this well-known root and herb medicine a trial. Mrs. Tomsheck's experience should guide you to health.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

VALLEY OF THE CIRCUS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON



"Oh, look! There are the big tents right ahead of us!"

The seventh valley was called the Valley of the Circus.

"There isn't a bit of use in me trying to tell you not to stay here," said the dove who was guiding them 'One might just as well tell a fish to stay out of the water"

"Why?" asked Nancy

"Because a circus stays here, when it isn't traveling around the earth," answered the dove "And Twelve Toes and Tricky Trixo and Bena Mena have all gone together to work their wicked magic so that you Twins will have to stop You'll forget all about your journey to the Kingdom of the Korsknotts. But Flipperty-Flop, a little fairy friend of mine, happens to be here now, and I'll have him speak to you after you have seen the most interesting things. Perhaps the magic will have worn off then enough to let you choose. I'll wait for you on the hawthorne tree across the valley. There is only one more valley after this, you know, until you reach the end of your journey."

Away flew the dove and at that moment there was the blare of a brass band.

Nick had just been about to say, "Oh, come on, Nancy We'll fool the dove and show him that those three old sorcerers can't boss us any more with their old magic'" when the music started.

Instead he said, in spite of himself, "Oh, look' There are the big tents right ahead of us. Let's go in"

And Nancy who also had resolved in her own little heart to do just what Nick had made up his mind to do and go straight ahead through the valley on the Fairy Queen's errand, said delightedly, "Oh, yes, come on. We must see this lovely circus! I wonder if they still have Tag Tiger and Mr and Mrs Lion and Kicky Kangaroo and his mother, and Gyp the Giraffe, and all the others who ran away one time!"

By that time they were inside the gate The man had let them in for nothing.

Wasn't old Twelve Toes a rascal! It was all his doing, you know.

OUR FIRST YEAR

CHAPTER XXX—SEEDS OF DISSENSION

By a Bride

Left alone at home for the first time since my marriage, I was lonesome to the verge of weeping

Of course Jack would have married Mrs Herrod instead of me had she been his own age.

Why hadn't I met Mr. Herrod before it was too late?

I fell to crying bitterly, then went to bed, and pretended to be sound asleep when Jack came home. I murmured something inarticulate when he spoke to me. And I camouflaged sleep until nearly daybreak

Fortunately, the next day was a holiday and we slept late. It rained, weather that ordinarily we would have welcomed with joy, for it made a day we could have to ourselves.

But my thoughts did not materialize, for my thoughts of the previous evening continued to harass me. What had Jack said to Mrs. Herrod? What had she said to Jack?

Sleeplessness and the need to tell Jack of those bills made my nerves ragged Jack's soft whistling irritated me. When he spoke, my replies were far from honeyed

Once in a while my husband's good nature annoys me He is exact, practical, and when he is absorbed in his own thoughts, he has an abrupt way of meeting a question with quick concentration, of answering it briefly and precisely. It was so that morning

And as any wife would have done, I concluded that he was still thinking about his game and the lady of the previous evening'

At last the weather cleared a little. We decided to take a long walk

I adjusted my hat, put on my gloves, remembered my adored string of mock pearls which I wear everywhere I go

But in adjusting them, rather clumsily with my gloved fingers, they caught on a button of my coat, the string broke and the tiny globules of moonlight rolled to the far corners of the room

Tears came to my eyes Jack half shaved, hurried to my assistance. We could not find all of them. We never did find three of them. Jack's patience exasperated me. I could hardly coax him to relinquish the search for the missing three.

Surely, my husband must be the very best man in the world That morning he was almost too good He could not or he would not perceive that I was decidedly out of temper And had he seen, I'm sure he would have hunted up some plausible excuse for my nervous tension

How to Make Child-birth Easier!

DO YOU wish to know how thousands and thousands of women have gone thru motherhood without knowing some of the pains and discomforts incident to childbirth? Listen to this:

Motherhood creates almost a new state of being for a woman.

As a result, new nerves, these heretofore restful and quiescent, spring into activity, they cry out, they tingle, they burn in their unrest.

The network of nerves across the abdomen, the loins, the back and other parts now become supersensitive. All these nerves are being called on to perform unusual duties.

These nerves must be pacified and comforted; must be put in condition for the crisis that is pending.

If these nerves are not soothed and quieted, they may set up aggravated nerve tension, increasing in severity from month to month, sometimes even culminating in a nervous paralysis of the back and limbs. This leaves the mother-to-be in a condition where she is unable, fully, to meet the test when the climax of maternity arrives.

Mother's Friend is used externally as a massage; and its purpose, thru daily use, is to gradually, gently and effectively relax the muscles and nerves involved in the function of child-bearing; to make the skin soft, pliable and elastic so that it may expand easily and naturally as the abdominal parts enlarge—thereby relieving the tension and strain on these muscles and nerves of the otherwise severe distension before delivery.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, 515 Palm St. Scranton, Pa., says.

"I am willing and anxious to tell any mother about Mother's Friend. It did me so much good that I wouldn't be without it if it cost $1.00 a bottle. With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I only had a nurse, we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

Many doctors and nurses recommend Mother's Friend. It contains no narcotics, or habit-forming drugs and is perfectly harmless. All drug stores carry Mother's Friend.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and substitutes—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.

RUSSIANS TO TAKE FULL ADVANTAGE OF THE GERMAN 'PACT'

HOPE TO FORCE REST OF EUROPE TO AGREE TO RUSSIAN TERMS

FRENCH FAIRLY INSANE WITH ANGER AT OUTCOME

See a Deliberate German Policy of Cheating Them Out of Money Loaned Russia

By HARRY N RICKEY

Special Cable to NEA Service.
Copyright, 1922, NEA Service

GENOA, May 4—Before Lloyd George left London for Genoa he made a speech in parliament outlining his plans. One of the opposition remarked that in attempting to bring the Russians back into the family of nations, the premier was embarking on a dark and difficult mission.

There is reason to believe that Lloyd George now knows how exactly true that prophecy was

It is doubtful whether he would have made the attempt in just the way he has if he could have known that he would have to face a German-Russian combination and guard his rear against a French attack.

As events have developed, the British premier has been put in a most critical position in his career He has gone too far to turn back

Slipping Toward War.

Now he must successfully conclude a treaty with Russia in which other European powers will join The alternative is not only personal defeat, which would probably cost him the premiership, but Europe as a whole will be further from permanent peace and normal industrial life than at any time since the war.

This last is not a loose statement, made for the purpose of sensation It is a literal fact.

Two of the highest officials of the British government, speaking with authority to American and British newspaper men, have pointed this out as the irresistible logic of the situation created by the German-Russian treaty and the German-Russian attitude since the treaty was signed.

Russians the Cause.

This attitude, even more than the treaty itself, is what is causing the allies to take such a grave view Up to the time the treaty was signed, the Russians seemed to be in a very reasonable, even a conciliatory, mood And the Germans were so quiet that it looked as though it would be a comparatively simple matter to line up the whole of Europe on a sane program of peace and reconstruction

Since signing the treaty with Germany, the Russians have entirely changed their attitude, and there seems to be no doubt that every move they make is the result of decisions between themselves and the Germans They have made definite proposals to the allies—and then withdrawn them. They have made direct answers to the allied proposals—and then insisted upon fantastic interpretations of these answers

The Russian policy seems to be to take the fullest advantage of the position which their alliance with Germany gives them and to force the rest of Europe—through fear of future German-Russian military aggression—to make a treaty with them on Russia's own terms

These terms, so far as they can be deciphered from Russia's various proposals, answers and propaganda, include full recognition of the soviets and the granting of large credits by other European nations in return for which the soviets agree to recognise pre-war debts, payment to be deferred 30 years without interest

They insist upon having all their war debts wiped out and are very hazy as to how they will pay foreign nationals for property which they have confiscated since the revolution.

The Russians' whole idea now seems to be that by shrewd diplomacy and the German alliance they are in a position to dictate terms to the rest of Europe, and especially to Great Britain

French Fairly Mad.

The French reaction to this may be imagined. The French see in it a deliberate German policy of cheating them out of money loaned to Russia, driving a wedge between France and England, and finally a coalition of eastern Europe against them for military aggression

The French are fairly insane with anger, one of the evidences being the speech of Premier Poincare at Bar le Duc.

The British, on the other hand, while fully appreciating the gravity of the situation and their responsibility in calling the conference, are determined not to break with the Russians if there is any possibility of avoiding it

They frankly say they consider establishing good relations between Germany and Russia and the rest of Europe is so necessary to future peace that they are willing to concede every possible point

But there is a point beyond which even the British will not go. That point is to make a treaty with Russia and give her financial assistance, at the same time allowing her to repudiate her debts

It is pointed out that even if the allied delegates at Genoa made such a treaty no allied parliament would ratify it.

Even now public opinion in both France and England is becoming increasingly antagonistic to the Genoa negotiations with the soviets.

When Lord Birkenhead, chancellor of England, said the situation was never more delicate he was not over stating the case It is tragic as well as delicate

GOLDSTEIN APPOINTMENT MAY DRAW FIGHT

WASHINGTON, May 4—Senate republican leaders saw prospects of a fight today over President Harding's nomination of Nat Goldstein of St. Louis to be collector of internal revenue for the first Missouri district. Opposition to confirmation of Mr. Goldstein, it was said, would be based on his acceptance of $2,500 when a candidate for delegate to the Chicago republican national convention as a supporter of former Governor Lowden of Illinois.

The senate finance committee, to which the nomination was referred today, deferred action to await the opinion of Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, a co-member, who is reported to oppose the nomination.

GERMANS HAVE DERAILED THE LLOYD GEORGE "SPECIAL" FOR THE RESTORATION OF EUROPE

By HARRY N. RICKEY

GENOA, May 4.—The Germans have derailed the Lloyd George special for the economic restoration of Europe.

The British premier is working as hard as he ever worked in his life to get the train back on the track and under way again But it looks like a bad smashup.

Up to the time the Germans threw the derailing switch it seemed that the train would reach its destination on scheduled time—another Lloyd George achievement.

Everything was proceeding fairly smoothly and everybody was pleased with the conciliatory spirit in which the Russians were meeting allied proposals. Negotiations reached the point where the Russians were given the lowest allied terms upon which commercial treaties would be made.

There terms in brief were that Russia agree to pay pre-war debts and agree in principle to pay her war debts and debts resulting from confiscation of property after the war It was understood that pre-war debts would be deferred and that the amount of war debts and post-war debts would be subject to negotiation, the allies virtually conceding that they did not expect to collect.

The Russians asked for time in which to consider the final proposals and it was fully expected they would accept. This meant that commercial treaties between Russia and all European countries would follow and the first step taken toward European reconstruction

Then, without warning, the Germans got busy and signed with the Russians a commercial treaty wiping out all Russian debts.

Declaration of War.

The German-Russian treaty was virtually a declaration of economic war against the rest of Europe. That it may result in military war in the not far distant future is the fear that hangs over the allied delegates.

A German-Russian combine is the thing western Europe has feared ever since the end of the war. One big object of the Genoa conference was to prevent it, Instead it has precipitated it.

It seems impossible that any effective plans for European reconstruction will result from the conference. Such plans require good faith and confidence, which have now vanished.

Europe Is Divided.

Smaller nations are already lining up on either side of the big divisions and Europe as a whole is split worse than ever Lloyd George may be clever enough to hold the conference together for a time and have it go through the motions of doing something—but these will be only motions.

Europe is still under the spell of the old diplomacy and racial and national hates

It is well for America that she is not represented here America would be powerless to help She might lose much, with no chance to gain anything except enemies. Secretary Hughes was farsighted when he refused to send delegates to Genoa on the ground that the conference was political and not economic.

Mr and Mrs Thomas, A. C. Blake and wife of Kemp City are here attending the rodeo.

Forty-two arrests were made by city police Wednesday and Wednesday night, records obtained Thursday morning showed This surpassed by nine the total for Tuesday, when 33 evil doers found their way into the clutches of the law

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth His handiwork.—Psalm 19:1.

Sweet May hath come to love us,
Flowers, trees, their blossoms don;
And through blue heavens above us
The very clouds move on.
—Heine.

BEWARE OF GREEKS BEARING GIFTS.

Before any farmer is caught with the tariff bait that is being offered him by the republicans in the new tariff bill for which certain men and organizations are asking his support he ought to try to look at the hook. If he can get a good look at the hook he will know why the politicians and certain interests in the North and East are so solicitious about taking care of him in the tariff and why they are so anxious for his endorsement of the scheme.

Let us look, for example, at the item of wheat in the new tariff bill. The United States, as is well known, produces a large surplus of wheat which must be marketed abroad and it is pretty well recognized that the price paid in the United States is practically fixed for what the surplus sells for abroad. It has been proven in actual experience that a tariff on wheat hasn't added anything to the price paid to the American wheat grower.

But the new tariff bill puts a tariff of thirty cents a bushel on wheat. This is five cents a bushel more than levied under the emergency tariff bill.

Of course, with a basic tariff of thirty cents a bushel on wheat, it was quite natural and proper that the tariff makers should say: Now, we've put a tariff on wheat, we must put a like tariff on flour to take care of the theoretically added cost to the miller of wheat and then on top of that we must levy an additional tariff to give the miller equal protection with the wheat grower. A look at the flour schedule in the new tariff bill will make it evident that the tariff framers tried to be fair with the millers. They have levied a tariff of 78 cents per hundred pounds, or, around $1.50 a barrel on flour.

We cannot say that the price of flour would be $1.50 per barrel lower than it is without the tariff but the probabilities are that the tariff will help the miller a great deal more than it will help the farmer.

Take again the item of hides.

The new tariff bill would levy a duty of two cents a pound on green hides and four cents a pound on dried.

Having done so much for the farmer, the tariff framers certainly felt justified in allowing the manufacturer a tariff that would not only compensate him for the tariff on hides but would give him protection fully equal to that given the farmer so that we find a tariff of forty per cent on harness, saddles and saddlery. It is quite likely that the farmer pays all of this forty per cent when he buys a set of harness or a new saddle.

It is this way with a good many agricultural products on which we are being invited by our republican friends to levy a tariff.

There is an old saying: Beware of Greeks bearing gifts.

WOOD ALCOHOL.

Every patron of a bootlegger occasionally has a bad moment when he wonders if, by any chance, the stuff he has just swallowed puts him next on the list of wood alcohol's victims.

Millions of people discuss wood alcohol daily. Yet the average person knows next to nothing about this mysterious poison, except that it removes varnish, causes blindness and death, and is used by unscrupulous bootleggers because it is cheap.

So, Watson:

Methyl alcohol, commonly known as wood alcohol, was first discovered in 1812 by the research chemist, Taylor.

It is formed by the destructive distillation of wood. Also, it can be made from formaldehyde, intentionally or accidentally. You observe the possibilities of synthetic hooch made from alcohol that has been "spiked" with formaldehyde or other poisons, by government order, to make it unfit for beverage purposes.

Intoxication from wood alcohol is similar to the effects of pure bonded liquor—at first.

It intoxicates slowly and is remarkable for the duration of its "hangover," as undertakers will testify.

A teaspoonful of wood alcohol is sufficient to cause blindness, beginning with double vision, falling of the body's temperature, loss of sensation in the nerve centers, and rhythmic convulsions.

A drink of wood alcohol causes blindness 90 times out of 100, and usually means certain death, though sometimes the patient lingers for as long as a year.

Here is a sentence which, if written indelibly in every brain, would save many a life:

"It is worthy of note that in many cases methyl alcohol amblyopia (beginning of blindness) has resulted from the excessive use of essence of ginger, or peppermint, or other aromatics, in the preparation of which the alcohol has been used as a menstruum (solvent)."

That is a quotation from the United States dispensatory, the official medical guide used by druggists and physicians.

What to do when some one has swallowed wood alcohol? Rush for a doctor. Even he can do little except strive to get it out of the system, cause free sweating and administer large doses of sodium bicarbonate dissolved in water.

Ethyl alcohol—the grain alcohol of so-called pure whisky, sought by many as the elixir of youth—consists of a combination of two atoms of carbon, one of oxygen, six of hydrogen.

From that, take two atoms of hydrogen and one of carbon, and you have wood alcohol.

Funny, what a difference just a few atoms make.

COMMISSIONER CLIFFORD'S ATTITUDE.

Items appearing recently in The Times to the effect that Street Commissioner Clifford intended to ask for repeal of the portion of the traction company's franchise which exempts it from sharing in paving charges did not state Mr. Clifford's attitude correctly, he stated Wednesday.

Mr. Clifford said that all that had been asked of the traction company was that it repair the paving at points which the company itself had torn up or damaged, naming in particular points at Tenth and Lamar and at Thirteenth and Broad. Mr. Clifford said that he believed that there ought to be no question about this and that, in fact, an agreement had practically been reached with the traction company to that effect.

The items and an editorial in The Times had put Mr. Clifford in the attitude of wanting to require the traction company to help bear the expense of future new paving; this, Mr. Clifford said, is not his intention.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"THEY TOIL NOT—NEITHER DO THEY SPIN"

As I turned into the path leading to my home tonight I was arrested by a scene that thrilled me. Through a mass of trees the sky was streaked with purples, golds, reds, blues—massed in a sunset of exquisite design.

Long stretched across the sky like huge ribbons were these formations of color.

It was a picture of silence. Many people glanced at it only to look away—busied with their thoughts of the day or of some event of the night. But in my memory I still hold this passing patch of beauty.

The world would have gone along just the same without this gift from the great somewhere—but thank God that it came!

I walked into the woods this morning before going to the work of the day. And at my feet I saw scores and scores of little white flowers poking their tiny heads up into the light of this earth. Most of them will live and wilt and pass as unnoticed as they came—useless creatures of existence some would say—but so long as I believe that there is a God, I shall believe that He spends a great deal of His time walking in the woods among the flowers and loving the trees—handiwork of His creation.

How often have you seen the still tear fall from its nest in somebody's eye—only to disappear as silently as it came—perhaps to moisten the soil of the one who shed it.

We do not hear all the music in this world—and much of the beauty that comes to us, arrives in hidden form.

What artist has ever been able to catch even the faintest spark of the real life of a baby's smile?

And who is there in all this world who can adequately describe the breath of spring or make words tell the story of the fall of autumn leaves?

JUST FOLKS

—By—
Edgar A. Guest

WHEN I GET HOME.

When I get home at night they run
To meet me down the street;
The duties of the day are done
And joy is mine to meet.
Here is a welcome warm and true,
Worth every task a man can do.

I stoop to catch them in my arms
And nestle face to face;
The finest of this old world's charms
Is naught to this embrace;
Thus to be greeted, I declare,
Is worth a thousand years of care.

The toiling of the day is o'er,
No more I need to roam,
They shout this through the open door:
"Oh, Mother! Daddy's home!"
Who would not toil where engines hiss
To earn so glad an hour as this?

When I get home at night, and see
The little place aglow
With love and laughter all for me,
The table set just so,
I tell myself, "just one glad smile
Makes all the care of day worth while.

Oh, we have grieved and we have wept
And bitter were our tears,
Yet when the long faith we have kept
Through all the lonely years,
There will be glad souls in the gloom
To welcome us when we get home.

SMILE A WHILE

By TOM SIMS.

Pullman porters are being taught to sing. Travelers will join in on "Where are my wandering shoes tonight?"

A Chinaman named Chow can jump nearly 12 feet. Probably a result of the Japs keeping the Chinese on the jump.

Trouble with setting a theif to catch a thief is they go off together.

In London, they have temporary movable lawns. Many of our lawns are temporary, but not movable.

In Chicago, they found a still under a barber shop. It seems that a policeman was "next."

Justice isn't blind when a goodlooking murderess is being tried.

HARBOUR'S MEDITATIONS

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

Drunkards and fishermen, either separately or in combination, will understand the rejoicing reported from India over a big crop of fish-berries.

The fish-berry, known to science as "cocculus indicus," is about half an inch long. Its poisonous or narcotic principle is picrotoxin.

Hindus throw fish-berries into rivers, fish eat them, get drunk and are picked up from boats as they float on the surface.

Any angler who can beat that for a fish story, come forward. This one is true. Ask your doctor.

AUTO-RADIO

Around Boston glides an auto, its riders hearing radio concerts received by a "loop" antenna carried in the car.

This arrangement will especially interest midnight joy-riders.

But don't be surprised if, within five years, every auto is equipped with a wireless receiving outfit when it leaves the factory. One blessing of the wireless is that it is easily portable and can pick up its stuff "on the run."

HOOKY

Five mothers in New York city are sentenced to two days in jail for not making their children go to school.

We move forward. Education now is compulsory, under the democratic system. A few generations ago, schools were almost exclusively for the children of the rich.

When autocracies were the rule instead of the exception, kings kept their subject people ignorant, knowing that education makes slavery of any kind impossible.

AIR

Do you own the air above your property? The common law says yes—that the land owner owns everything above as well as beneath his piece of land.

When flying machines become common, will property owners post "No trespassing" signs? Griggs, founder of the American Flying club, fears so.

He tells aerial experts that congress will have to amend the law before cautious capital will invest enough money to develop aviation as it should do.

Sensible land owners will be satisfied, provided they are safe-guarded against planes falling on their heads and homes.

YELLOW

Chinese armies battle along a 130-mile front. It is a real battle, with airplanes and artillery.

No American pays much attention to it, because the Chinese are fighting among themselves. It would be another story if the bullets were coming our way.

It was different 1500 years ago, when an army of 28,000,000 Chinese pushed westward through Europe, to be defeated and driven back at the Marne.

That excursion has almost vanished from our histories. But the impression it made on our ancestors still runs in our blood as an instinctive fear of the Yellow Peril.

WARNINGS.

The Class One railroads during February had net operating income or profits of $47,762,600.

This is shown by reports filed with the interstate commerce commission. It's equivalent to the roads earning $4.57 a year on each $100 of their total valuation.

Considerable time has passed since that valuation figure was fixed. Business men, who have been writing off losses in their inventories, will wonder how much the railroads have depreciated in value, during the nation-wide price collapse.

A material depreciation would boost the 4.57 figure announced as the annual earning rate during February.

Texas Viewpoints

Albany News: Jim Lowrey of the Honey Grove Signal takes a fling at west Texas, yes, pokes fun at us about our sand storms and says the boys down in the sticks come out west with big fat homes and mules, and stay a year or two, get sand in their eyes and in their craw, go broke and then migrate back home with a pair of jacks and a tar grinder. Jim Lowrey, when he strikes one of these humorous moods in the editorial columns of the Honey Grove Signal it is like a murmuring brook running through shady nooks over the white pebble beds and gliding down the gentle sloping water falls, and the bass and trout of joy hide and seek in the liquid depths of the pearly streams of laughter. And so we cast a line, and follow him in his wild and drunken spree as he goes scampering through the grassy dells, and directly we hang our hook in an interrogation point, whose definition would make a stone man laugh. And durn his time, when he enters the realm of sarcasm, he wields a two edge lance, and still it's funny too, when the joke is on the other fellow. But doggone your time Jim Lowrey, you want to be careful how you bandy with the name of west Texas, for out here, just where the eastern and the western longitudinal or meridian lines meet and blend there is a beautiful golden gate, the passage way to a vast domain, away high up, above two thousand feet above the Gulf stream, away from the chiggers, ticks, chills and fever infested swamps of east Texas, especially created and set apart by the Creator for a noble race, and the gates stand ajar, and bids brain and brawn and the hand of industry a hearty welcome. And by the way, thousands of the down easterners have come west and made good, but unfortunately, lots of them had the disease of hook worm, and were full of prunes, and thought that they could come out here in the glorious west and make a living dead easy, swapping horses and dealing in wild cat grass lands, yes, played at the game of being a sport and got skinned out of their belongings, and wound up with a pair of jacks—down in the sticks and dead broke, and they have doled out a lonesome story of hard luck to the press boys of east Texas, out of which they have made much capital and buildied the fires of discontent. And notwithstanding to the contrary as to what Jim Lowrey and his ink may say about it, it's a great country, and pregnant with golden opportunities. We said a vast domain, and that's the truth, it's four or five hundred miles wide and about eight hundred miles lengthwise, the blue dome of heaven drops her azure skirts down and kisses the virgin soil, injecting into its capillary system the toxin of wealth, and oh golleys watch the valleys blossom with the golden grain, the juice oozes from the peach and the wine drips from the vine—and there's a sack of gold at the end of every rainbow of hope, provided however, that you do not mind blistered hands, sore shins, and you have got nerve and ain't afraid of a scrap. But on the other hand, if you think that you can come out here and run a skin game, play poker on easy street, build a castle on prosperity lane, and soldier on the job—you'd better remain in the sticks.—Abilene Reporter.

Denison Herald: The decision of the supreme court upholding federal control over the packing house and stockyards industry shows conclusively that we have not yet reached the limit of federal authority in regulating private business in the history of the government when it was generally understood that congress could pass no law that was not authorized by the constitution, the government being one of delegated powers. It is different now. Under the broad construction given the interstate commerce provision of the constitution, there is scarcely any business, trade or vocation that can not be deemed connected or associated with interstate commerce in some way whereby congress is given authority to regulate and control it. As the Herald views it, the contention of the traders' counsel that a decision upholding the act would destroy state commerce is sound in principle as well as in law. If it be true that stockyard traders are engaged in interstate commerce, so are all dealers who place in their market places or in their stores products shipped in interstate commerce and purchased from commission houses. If it is a protective measure, designed to protect the public from oppression, there is no reason why congress can not clothe the commission with additional power to retain control of packing house products until they have reached the hands of consumers. And if it be so authorized and empowered, there is no reason why congress could not just as well provide regulation and control of every species and character of merchandise produced by and sold to the public. And in the light of past enlargements of federal authority and encroachments upon state commerce, there is every reason to believe that in the fullness of time congress will go to the extreme of federalized control that will be little short of nationalization of all industries. It is a dream that the most ardent socialist never hoped to enjoy fulfillment. They have talked about it and pictured the beauties and glories of common ownership, or the next thing to it—government regulation and control—simply as an ideal whose acceptance would banish all misery from the world. But notwithstanding the gradual extension of federal control over private business we look in vain for the improved conditions it was assigned to bring about. However, the country has reconciled itself to the regulation habit and therefore tamely submits to whatever it may please congress to sponsor for the material or spiritual benefit of the people.

Denton Record-Chronicle: From his recent utterances one judges that R. G. Senter's hatred of former President Wilson has turned Mr. Senter into the republican party. Mr. Senter has been headed in that direction for some time, and his declaration before a group of republican women at Dallas the other day that the democratic party is "not decent enough to enter a family's back yard" indicates that he has at last arrived in full fellowship with the G. O. P. Mr. Senter as a republican is very much less likely to damage the democratic party than as a half-hearted democrat; but when he admits his inability after long endeavor to bring the democratic party up to his ideals and into acceptance of his ideas, one wonders if he is not also due eventually to find the reformation of the republican a task beyond his capabilities.

The Medicine Cabinet

By DR. R. H. BISHOP

Is yours an up-to-date medicine cabinet? Has it all the necessary drugs and appliances to cope with emergencies and accidents?

In every home a few first-aid materials should be kept. It is best that they be kept in a cabinet, as otherwise they would get lost or be unavailable in time of need.

Alcohol, two ounces.

Aromatic spirits of ammonia (rubber cork), two ounces.

Castor oil, two ounces, two bottles.

Seidlits powders, 12 in box.

Mustard, powdered, two ounces.

Sirup of ginger, two ounces.

Sirup of ipecac, two ounces.

Five-grain bismuth subnitrate tablets, 50 in bottle.

Carbolated petrolatum, one tube.

Boracic acid, one ounce.

One bottle soda mint tablets, 50 in bottle.

One-dram bottle oil of cloves, labeled poison.

One small package antiseptic gauze.

One tin talcum powder

One-quarter pound absorbent cotton.

Six gauze roller bandages, three large, three small.

Two Red Cross first-aid outfits.

One small bottle collodion with brush.

One box tooth plasters.

One box corn plasters.

One sharp knife.

One pair scissors

One clinical thermometer.

Pins, common and safety.

In such a cabinet should be placed also any medicine prescribed by the family physician. After such medicines have served their purpose, however, the only place for them is the trash pile. Intended for only a particular case of illness, they may be dangerous for anything else.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is consortium.

It's pronounced—kon-sor-shi-um, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—a fellowship, assembly, association, combination or union.

It's adopted, directly, from—Latin "consortium," with the same meaning as when employed as an English word

It's used like this—"Upon the terms they name, certain powers are disposed to form a consortium to develop Russian enterprises."

CALOMEL GOOD BUT AWFUL TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. (adv.)

FRIDAY'S MEETING EXPECTED TO FORM ORGANIZATION HERE

PROTECTIVE TARIFF ADVOCATES TO CONVENE AT KEMP HOTEL.

JOHN H. KIRBY TO BE AMONG VISITORS

Will Speak at Wichita Theater at Night—Several Delegates Are Coming.

Organization of a "protective tariff club" in this vicinity is expected to result from the meeting scheduled to be held here Friday under auspices of the Southern Tariff association.

The meeting here was called by John Henry Kirby of Houston president of the Southern Tariff association, which is demanding a protective tariff on vegetable oils, peanuts, live stock, meats, hides, wool, grain, poultry, dairy products and all agricultural, pastoral and mineral products, according to its literature It also urges 'a national tariff policy that will preserve American industries against destructive foreign competition

The sentiment of producers of livestock, cotton, petroleum and other products in this section on the subject of the tariff is expected to be determined at the session Friday, according to officials of the Southern Tariff association which is sponsoring the congress In other sections of Texas it is claimed that the position of the citizenship has been determined and that sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of tariff levies that will protect the American producer against unfair foreign competition. A petition filed with the association signed by 961 banks of Texas demanding that the products of this state be given the same measure of protection that is accorded the manufacturer, is pointed out as an authoritative expression of the business mind on this issue. There are 267 newspapers of Texas also included in the list of petitioners for a tariff on southern raw material, according to the records of the association

The association is concerned mainly in taking the tariff out of politics it is claimed and is endeavoring to align both democrats and republicans in the movement looking toward this end

A delegation of peanut men headed by N L. Haskins of DeLeon and J R Fleming of Weatherford, representing the Southwestern Peanut Shellers association will attend the congress tomorrow, according to information at the temporary headquarters of the tariff association in the City National Bank of Commerce building The peanut men are up in arms against a joker in the tariff measure now before congress which permits the free importation of vegetable oils for soap making purposes and are expected to pass strong resolutions here in reference to the matter.

Petitions are being received at the tariff headquarters from citizens in Pilot Point, Henrietta and other places favoring a tariff on agricultural, pastoral and mineral products and endorsing the efforts of the association for its efforts in behalf of productive industry

J A Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff association, has been in the city several days in connection with the congress and John H. Kirby of Houston, presiding, is expected to arrive early Friday and will preside at the meeting

The session will be held at the Kemp hotel, beginning at ten o'clock and will continue throughout the day. The principal address of the congress will be given by John H Kirby Friday night at the opera house at eight. Other speakers on the program will be N. A. Shaw of Texarkana, president of the Texas division of the Southern Tariff association, Geo. W. Armstrong, cattleman of Fort Worth, and Ed Woodall of the Texas Cotton Crushers association at Hillsboro.

ROTARIANS HEAR SEVERAL SPEAKERS ON SCHOOL NEEDS

An explanation of the coming school bond issue, and the purposes for which the proceeds will be used, was given the Rotary club at its luncheon Thursday by E S Goodner, a member of the school board Mr. Goodner urged that, in spite of the lack of opposition to the bonds Rotarians and the citizenship generally support them actively.

"The time has passed," Mr Goodner said, "when people come here just to make money Wichita Falls is now attracting people here as a good place in which to live. By building up our educational system we can make it still more desirable"

The increase in taxes will be only 25 cents on the $100, Mr. Goodner pointed out, declaring this amount to be negligible in view of the benefits to be attained.

Notice was served on Rotarians that their oratorical powers will be tested in the "back to school" campaign which the club will wage before the end of the school, as a number of the members will be asked to make talks in the various school buildings on this subject urging boys and girls not to fail to avail themselves of the educational opportunities afforded

Federal Judge Jacks of Shreveport, a Rotarian, made a brief and humorous talk in which he spoke of the value of good schools to the community. W M Priddy spoke briefly in connection with the junior high school feature of the bond issue

R E Shepherd led the songfest not with entire success, however, owing to differences of opinion as to which song should be sung

CANDIDATE MAKES PLATFORM PUBLIC IN CONGRESS RACE

The platform on which Orville Bullington, candidate for congress, is making the race, was made public Thursday. It contains Mr. Bullington's tariff position, as previously set forth by him, and contains other planks as follows:

Legislation furthering co-operative marketing associations, rigid enforcement of all criminal statutes under jurisdictions of U S courts, intermediate system of farm credits, rigid economy in government affairs and repeal of bonus system for old employes, limiting of army and navs to lowest point consistent with national safety, state rights, opposition to government ownership of railroads, opposition to use of government money of local projects until war debt is paid, refusal of recognition to Mexico until adequate guarantees are given, restriction of immigration except desirable members of immediate families of foreigners already here, land settlement plan for soldiers, opposition to cash bonus plan .

The statement issued by Mr. Bullington seeks to make it plain that he is running as an independent

BAUM AND GARDNER STOCK TO GO ON SALE SHORTLY

A number of employes of the W A Ballard company of Texas were at work Thursday appraising and repricing the stock of the Baum and Gardner company with the view of placing it on sale at extremely low prices in the near future Baum and Gardner recently filed a voluntary petition of bankruptcy

The entire stock, consisting of ladies' and men's clothing, shoes and notions will be thrown on the market at bankrupt prices as soon as the inventory is complete

The sale will be managed by H B. Hicks and N. Quinn, representatives of the Ballard company

JUNIOR COLLEGE TO BEGIN NEXT FALL IF ENOUGH ENROLLED

The starting of junior college work as a feature of the local educational system will not wait until the new high school building is erected. If a sufficient number of graduate students want to start junior college work next fall, provision will be made for them, the school board has decided.

To date 16 students have signified a willingness to go ahead with such work here, and if a large enough number is obtained, the classes will begin next fall. By a year from next fall the new building will be ready, and the students can go ahead with the second year of junior college work.

In making such provision, the board is proceeding on the idea that it will give opportunity to students who might not be able to go away to school to continue their education without intermission.

PROTECTION VERSUS FAIR PLAY

Why Is Wheat Cheap and Flour Dear?

The Pending Republican Protective Tariff Bill Carries a Duty on Wheat Flour of 78 Cents Per Hundred Pounds or $1.56 Per Barrel

One local mill has a daily capacity of 3,500 barrels. When running at full capacity the mill owners would receive protection, or unearned profit, of more than five thousand dollars per day!

Who Pays?

The people pay. This money comes out of the pockets of the people. If this bill goes into effect war prices for bread will again prevail. The cost of living in every home will be raised in direct proportion.

Protection of flour illustrates how the American consumer is being plundered by the manufacturing interests of the country under Republican rule. In 1921 the protection given 29 big industries by the present tariff revenue law cost the people six billion five hundred million dollars—while it turned into the United States treasury less than three hundred million. Under a strictly Republican protective tariff law the present burden will be increased four-fold.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth His handiwork.—Psalm 19:1.

Sweet May hath come to love us,
Flowers, trees, their blossoms don;
And through blue heavens above us
The very clouds move on.
—Heine.

BEWARE OF GREEKS BEARING GIFTS.

Before any farmer is caught with the tariff bait that is being offered him by the republicans in the new tariff bill for which certain men and organizations are asking his support he ought to try to look at the hook. If he can get a good look at the hook he will know why the politicians and certain interests in the North and East are so solicitious about taking care of him in the tariff and why they are so anxious for his endorsement of the scheme.

Let us look, for example, at the item of wheat in the new tariff bill. The United States, as is well known, produces a large surplus of wheat which must be marketed abroad and it is pretty well recognized that the price paid in the United States is practically fixed for what the surplus sells for abroad. It has been proven in actual experience that a tariff on wheat hasn't added anything to the price paid to the American wheat grower.

But the new tariff bill puts a tariff of thirty cents a bushel on wheat. This is five cents a bushel more than levied under the emergency tariff bill.

Of course, with a basic tariff of thirty cents a bushel on wheat, it was quite natural and proper that the tariff makers should say: Now, we've put a tariff on wheat, we must put a like tariff on flour to take care of the theoretically added cost to the miller of wheat and then on top of that we must levy an additional tariff to give the miller equal protection with the wheat grower. A look at the flour schedule in the new tariff bill will make it evident that the tariff framers tried to be fair with the millers. They have levied a tariff of 78 cents per hundred pounds, or, around $1.50 a barrel on flour.

We cannot say that the price of flour would be $1.50 per barrel lower than it is without the tariff but the probabilities are that the tariff will help the miller a great deal more than it will help the farmer.

Take again the item of hides.

The new tariff bill would levy a duty of two cents a pound on green hides and four cents a pound on dried.

Having done so much for the farmer, the tariff framers certainly felt justified in allowing the manufacturer a tariff that would not only compensate him for the tariff on hides but would give him protection fully equal to that given the farmer so that we find a tariff of forty per cent on harness, saddles and saddlery. It is quite likely that the farmer pays all of this forty per cent when he buys a set of harness or a new saddle.

It is this way with a good many agricultural products on which we are being invited by our republican friends to levy a tariff.

There is an old saying: Beware of Greeks bearing gifts.

WOOD ALCOHOL.

Every patron of a bootlegger occasionally has a bad moment when he wonders if, by any chance, the stuff he has just swallowed puts him next on the list of wood alcohol's victims.

Millions of people discuss wood alcohol daily. Yet the average person knows next to nothing about this mysterious poison, except that it removes varnish, causes blindness and death, and is used by unscrupulous bootleggers because it is cheap.

So, Watson:

Methyl alcohol, commonly known as wood alcohol, was first discovered in 1812 by the research chemist, Taylor.

It is formed by the destructive distillation of wood. Also, it can be made from formaldehyde, intentionally or accidentally.. You observe the possibilities of synthetic hooch made from alcohol that has been "spiked" with formaldehyde or other potions, by government order, to make it unfit for beverage purposes.

Intoxication from wood alcohol is similar to the effects of pure bonded liquor—at first.

It intoxicates slowly and is remarkable for the duration of its "hangover," as undertakers will testify.

A teaspoonful of wood alcohol is sufficient to cause blindness, beginning with double vision, falling of the body's temperature, loss of sensation in the nerve centers, and rhythmic convulsions

A drink of wood alcohol causes blindness 30 times out of 100, and usually means certain death, though sometimes the patient lingers for as long as a year.

Here is a sentence which, if written indelibly in every brain, would save many a life:

"It is worthy of note that in many cases methyl alcohol amblyopia (beginning of blindness) has resulted from the excessive use of essence of ginger, or peppermint, or other aromatics, in the preparation of which the alcohol has been used as a menstruum (solvent)."

That is a quotation from the United States dispensatory, the official medical guide used by druggists and physicians.

What to do when some one has swallowed wood alcohol? Rush for a doctor. Even he can do little except strive to get it out of the system, cause free sweating and administer large doses of sodium bicarbonate dissolved in water.

Ethyl alcohol—the grain alcohol of so-called pure whisky, sought by many as the elixir of youth—consists of a combination of two atoms of carbon, one of oxygen, six of hydrogen.

From that, take two atoms of hydrogen and one of carbon, and you have wood alcohol.

Funny, what a difference just a few atoms make.

COMMISSIONER CLIFFORD'S ATTITUDE.

Items appearing recently in The Times to the effect that Street Commissioner Clifford intended to ask for repeal of the portion of the traction company's franchise which exempts it from sharing in paving charges did not state Mr. Clifford's attitude correctly, he stated Wednesday.

Mr. Clifford said that all that had been asked of the traction company was that it repair the paving at points which the company itself had torn up or damaged, naming in particular points at Tenth and Lamar and at Thirteenth and Broad. Mr. Clifford said that he believed that there ought to be no question about this and that, in fact, an agreement had practically been reached with the traction company to that effect.

The items and an editorial in The Times had put Mr. Clifford in the attitude of wanting to require the traction company to help bear the expense of future new paving; this, Mr. Clifford said, is not his intention.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"THEY TOIL NOT—NEITHER DO THEY SPIN"

As I turned into the path leading to my home tonight I was arrested by a scene that thrilled me. Through a maze of trees the sky was streaked with purples, golds, reds, blues—massed in a sunset of exquisite design.

Long stretched across the sky like huge ribbons were these formations of color.

It was a picture of silence. Many people glanced at it only to look away—busied with their thoughts of the day or of some event of the night. But in my memory I still hold this passing patch of beauty.

The world would have gone along just the same without this gift from the great somewhere—but thank God that it came!

I walked into the woods this morning before going to the work of the day. And at my feet I saw scores and scores of little white flowers poking their tiny heads up into the light of this earth. Most of them will live and wilt and pass as unnoticed as they came—useless creatures of existence some would say—but so long as I believe that there is a God, I shall believe that He spends a great deal of His time walking in the woods among the flowers and loving the trees—handiwork of His creation.

How often have you seen the still tear fall from its nest in somebody's eye—only to disappear as silently as it came—perhaps to moisten the soul of the one who shed it.

We do not hear all the music in this world—and much of the beauty that comes to us, arrives in hidden form.

What artist has ever been able to catch even the faintest spark of the real life of a baby's smile?

And who is there in all this world who can adequately describe the breath of spring or make words tell the story of the fall of autumn leaves?

(Copyright, 1922, by George Matthew Adams.)

JUST FOLKS

—By—
Edgar A. Guest

WHEN I GET HOME.

When I get home at night they run
To meet me down the street;
The duties of the day are done
And joy is mine to meet.
Here is a welcome warm and true,
Worth every task a man can do.

I stoop to catch them in my arms
And nestle face to face;
The finest of this old world's charms
Is naught to this embrace;
Thus to be greeted, I declare,
Is worth a thousand years of care.

The toiling of the day is o'er,
No more I need to roam,
They shout this through the open door:
"Oh, Mother! Daddy's home!"
Who would not toil where engines hiss
To earn so glad an hour as this?

When I get home at night, and see
The little place aglow
With love and laughter all for me,
The table set just so,
I tell myself, just one glad smile
Makes all the care of day worth while.

Oh, we have grieved and we have wept
And bitter were our tears,
Yet when the long faith we have kept
Through all the lonely years,
There will be glad souls in the gloam
To welcome us when we get home.

HANBONE'S MEDITATIONS

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

Drunkards and fishermen, either separately or in combination, will understand the rejoicing reported from India over a big crop of fish-berries.

The fish-berry, known to science as "cocculus indicus," is about half an inch long. Its poisonous or narcotic principle is picrotoxin.

Hindus throw fish-berries into rivers, fish eat them, get drunk and are picked up from boats as they float on the surface.

Any angler who can beat that for a fish story, come forward. This one is true. Ask your doctor.

AUTO-RADIO

Around Boston glides an auto, its riders hearing radio concerts received by a "loop" antenna carried in the car.

This arrangement will especially interest midnight joy-riders.

But don't be surprised if, within five years, every auto is equipped with a wireless receiving outfit when it leaves the factory. One blessing of the wireless is that it is easily portable and can pick up its stuff "on the run."

HOOKY

Five mothers in New York city are sentenced to two days in jail for not making their children go to school.

We move forward. Education now is compulsory, under the democratic system. A few generations ago, schools were almost exclusively for the children of the rich.

When autocracies were the rule instead of the exception, kings kept their subject people ignorant, knowing that education makes slavery of any kind impossible.

AIR

Do you own the air above your property? The common law says, yes—that the land owner owns everything above as well as beneath his piece of land.

When flying machines become common, will property owners post "No trespassing" signs? Griggs, founder of the American Flying club, fears so.

He tells aerial experts that congress will have to amend the law before cautious capital will invest enough money to develop aviation as it should be.

Sensible land owners will be satisfied, provided they are safe-guarded against planes falling on their heads and homes.

YELLOW

Chinese armies battle along a 120-mile front. It is a real battle, with airplanes and artillery.

No American pays much attention to it, because the Chinese are fighting among themselves. It would be another story if the bullets were coming our way.

It was different 1500 years ago, when an army of 20,000,000 Chinese pushed westward through Europe, to be defeated and driven back at the Marne.

That excursion has almost vanished from our histories. But the impression it made on our ancestors still runs in our blood as an instinctive fear of the Yellow Peril.

WARNINGS.

The Class One railroads during February had net operating income or profits of $47,762,600.

This is shown by reports filed with the interstate commerce commission. It's equivalent to the roads earning $4.57 a year on each $100 of their total valuation.

Considerable time has passed since that valuation figure was fixed. Business men, who have been writing off losses in their inventories, will wonder how much the railroads have depreciated in value during the nation-wide price collapse.

A material depreciation would boost the 4.57 figure announced as the annual earning rate during February.

Texas Viewpoints

Albany News: Jim Lowrey of the Honey Grove Signal takes a fling at west Texas, yes, pokes fun at us about our sand storms and says the boys down in the sticks come out west with big fat horses and mules, and stay a year or two, get sand in their eyes and in their craw, go broke and then migrate back home with a pair of jacks and a tax grinder. Jim Lowrey, when he strikes one of those humorous moods in the editorial columns of the Honey Grove Signal it is like a murmuring brook running through shady nooks over the white pebble beds and gliding down the gentle sloping water falls, and the bass and trout of joy hide and seek in the liquid depths of the pearly streams of laughter. And so we cast a line, and follow him in his wild and drunken spree as he goes scampering through the grassy dells, and directly we hang our hook in an interrogation point, whose definition would make a stone man laugh. And durn his time, when he enters the realm of sarcasm, he wields a two edge lance, and still it's funny too, when the joke is on the other fellow. But doggone your time Jim Lowrey, you want to be careful how you bandy with the name of west Texas, for out here, just where the eastern and the western longitudinal or meridian lines meet and blend there is a beautiful golden gate, the passage way to a vast domain, away high up, above two thousand feet above the Gulf stream, away from the chiggers, ticks, chills and fever infested swamps of east Texas, especially created and set apart by the Creator for a noble race, and the gates stand ajar, and bids brain and brawn and the hand of industry a hearty welcome. And by the way, thousands of the down easterners have come west and made good, but unfortunately, lots of them had the disease of hook worm, and were full of prunes, and thought that they could come out here in the glorious west and make a living dead easy, swapping horses and dealing in wild cat grass lands, yes, played at the game of being a sport and got skinned out of their belongings, and wound up with a pair of jacks—down in the sticks and dead broke, and they have doled out a lonesome story of hard luck to the press boys of east Texas, out of which they have made much capital and builded the fires of discontent. And notwithstanding to the contrary as to what Jim Lowrey and his ink may say about it, it's a great country, and pregnant with golden opportunities. We said a vast domain, and that's the truth, it's four or five hundred miles wide and about eight hundred miles lengthwise, the blue dome of heaven drops her azure skirts down and kisses the virgin soil, injecting into its capillary system the toxin of wealth, and oh golleys watch the valleys blossom with the golden grain, the juice oozes from the peach and the wine drips from the vine—and there's a sack of gold at the end of every rainbow of hope, provided however, that you do not mind blistered hands, sore shins, and you have got nerve and ain't afraid of a scrap. But on the other hand, if you think that you can come out here and run a skin game, play poker on easy street, build a castle on prosperity lane, and soldier on the job—you'd better remain in the sticks.—Abilene Reporter.

Denison Herald: The decision of the supreme court upholding federal control over the packing house and stockyards industry shows conclusively that we have not yet reached the limit of federal authority in regulating private business in the history of the government when it was generally understood that congress could pass no law that was not authorized by the constitution, the government being one of delegated powers It is different now Under the broad construction given the interstate commerce provision of the constitution, there is scarcely any business, trade or vocation that can not be deemed connected or associated with interstate commerce in some way whereby congress is given authority to regulate and control it. As the Herald views it, the contention of the traders' counsel that a decision upholding the act would destroy state commerce is sound in principle as well as in law. If it be true that stockyard traders are engaged in interstate commerce, so are all dealers who place in their market places or in their stores products shipped in interstate commerce and purchased from commission houses. If it is a protective measure, designed to protect the public from oppression, there is no reason why congress can not clothe the commission with additional power to retain control of packing house products until they have reached the hands of consumers And if it be so authorized and empowered, there is no reason why congress could not just as well provide regulation and control of every species and character of merchandise produced by and sold to the public. And in the light of past enlargements of federal authority and encroachments upon state commerce, there is every reason to believe that in the fullness of time congress will go to the extreme of federalized control that will be little short of nationalization of all industries. It is a dream that the most ardent socialist never hoped to enjoy fulfillment. They have talked about it and pictured the beauties and glories of common ownership, or the next thing to it—government regulation and control—simply as an ideal whose acceptance would banish all misery from the world. But notwithstanding the gradual extension of federal control over private business we look in vain for the improved conditions it was assigned to bring about. However, the country has reconciled itself to the regulation habit and therefore tamely submits to whatever it may please congress to sponsor for the material or spiritual benefit of the people.

Denton Record-Chronicle: From his recent utterances one judges that E. G. Senter's hatred of former President Wilson has turned Mr. Senter into the republican party. Mr. Senter has been headed in that direction for some time, and his declaration before a group of republican women at Dallas the other day that the democratic party is "not decent enough to enter a family's back yard" indicates that he has at last arrived in full fellowship with the G. O. P. Mr. Senter as a republican is very much less likely to damage the democratic party than as a half-hearted democrat; but when he admits his inability after long endeavor to bring the democratic party up to his ideals and into acceptance of his ideas, one wonders if he is not also due eventually to find the reformation of the republican a task beyond his capabilities.

The Medicine Cabinet

By DR. R. H. BISHOP

Is yours an up-to-date medicine cabinet? Has it all the necessary drugs and appliances to cope with emergencies and accidents?

In every home a few first-aid materials should be kept. It is best that they be kept in a cabinet, as otherwise they would get lost or be unavailable in time of need.

Alcohol, two ounces.

Aromatic spirits of ammonia (rubber cork), two ounces.

Castor oil, two ounces, two bottles.

Seidlitz powders, 12 in box.

Mustard, powdered, two ounces.

Sirup of ginger, two ounces

Sirup of ipecac, two ounces

Five-grain bismuth subnitrate tablets, 50 in bottle.

Carbolated petrolatum, one tube.

Boracic acid, one ounce.

One bottle soda mint tablets, 50 in bottle.

One-dram bottle oil of cloves, labeled poison.

One small package antiseptic gauze.

One tin talcum powder

One-quarter pound absorbent cotton.

Six gauze roller bandages, three large, three small

Two Red Cross first-aid outfits

One small bottle collodion with brush.

One box tooth plasters.

One box corn plasters

One sharp knife

One pair scissors.

One clinical thermometer.

Pins, common and safety.

In such a cabinet should be placed also any medicine prescribed by the family physician. After such medicines have served their purpose, however, the only place for them is the trash pile. Intended for only a particular case of illness, they may be dangerous for anything else

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is consortium

It's pronounced—kon-sor-shi-um, with accent on the second syllable

It means—a fellowship, assembly, association, combination or union

It's adopted, directly, from—Latin "consortium," with the same meaning as when employed as an English word

It's used like this—"Upon the terms they name, certain powers are disposed to form a consortium to develop Russian enterprises"

CALOMEL GOOD BUT AWFUL TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. (adv.)

FRIDAY'S MEETING EXPECTED TO FORM ORGANIZATION HERE

PROTECTIVE TARIFF ADVOCATES TO CONVENE AT KEMP HOTEL.

JOHN H. KIRBY TO BE AMONG VISITORS

Will Speak at Wichita Theater at Night—Several Delegates Are Coming.

Organization of a "protective tariff club" in this vicinity is expected to result from the meeting scheduled to be held here Friday under auspices of the Southern Tariff association.

The meeting here was called by John Henry Kirby of Houston, president of the Southern Tariff association, which is demanding a protective tariff on vegetable oils, peanuts, live stock, meats, hides, wool, grain, poultry, dairy products and all agricultural, pastoral and mineral products, according to its literature. It also urges 'a national tariff policy that will preserve American industries against destructive foreign competition

The sentiment of producers of livestock, cotton, petroleum and other products in this section on the subject of the tariff is expected to be determined at the session Friday, according to officials of the Southern Tariff association which is sponsoring the congress In other sections of Texas it is claimed that the position of the citizenship has been determined and that sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of tariff levies that will protect the American producer against unfair foreign competition. A petition filed with the association signed by 967 banks of Texas, demanding that the products of this state be given the same measure of protection that is accorded the manufacturer, is pointed out as an authoritative expression of the business mind on this issue. There are 267 newspapers of Texas also included in the list of petitioners for a tariff on southern raw material, according to the records of the association.

The association is concerned mainly in taking the tariff out of politics it is claimed and is endeavoring to align both democrats and republicans in the movement looking toward this end.

A delegation of peanut men headed by N. L. Hoskins of DeLeon and J R. Fleming of Weatherford, representing the Southwestern Peanut Shellers association will attend the congress tomorrow, according to information at the temporary headquarters of the tariff association in the City National Bank of Commerce building. The peanut men are up in arms against a joker in the tariff measure now before congress which permits the free importation of vegetable oils for soap making purposes and are expected to pass strong resolutions here in reference to the matter.

Petitions are being received at the tariff headquarters from citizens in Pilot Point, Henrietta and other places favoring a tariff on agricultural, pastoral and mineral products and endorsing the efforts of the association for its efforts in behalf of productive industry

J. A Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff association, has been in the city several days in connection with the congress and John H Kirby of Houston, presiding, is expected to arrive early Friday and will preside at the meeting

The session will be held at the Kemp hotel, beginning at ten o'clock and will continue throughout the day. The principal address of the congress will be given by John H. Kirby Friday night at the opera house at eight. Other speakers on the program will be N. A. Shaw of Texarkana, president of the Texas division of the Southern Tariff association, Geo. W. Armstrong, cattleman of Fort Worth, and Ed Woodall of the Texas Cotton Crushers association at Hillsboro.

ROTARIANS HEAR SEVERAL SPEAKERS ON SCHOOL NEEDS

An explanation of the coming school bond issue, and the purposes for which the proceeds will be used, was given the Rotary club at its luncheon Thursday by E S Goodner, a member of the school board Mr. Goodner urged that, in spite of the lack of opposition to the bonds, Rotarians and the citizenship generally support them actively.

"The time has passed," Mr. Goodner said, "when people come here just to make money. Wichita Falls is now attracting people here as a good place in which to live. By building up our educational system we can make it still more desirable"

The increase in taxes will be only 35 cents on the $100, Mr. Goodner pointed out, declaring this amount to be negligible in view of the benefits to be attained.

Notice was served on Rotarians that their oratorical powers will be tested in the "back to school" campaign which the club will wage before the end of the school as a number of the members will be asked to make talks in the various school buildings on this subject urging boys and girls not to fail to avail themselves of the educational opportunities afforded

Federal Judge Jacks of Shreveport, a Rotarian, made a brief and humorous talk in which he spoke of the value of good schools to the community. W. M. Priddy spoke briefly in connection with the junior high school feature of the bond issue

R. E Shepherd led the songfest, not with entire success, however, owing to differences of opinion as to which song should be sung.

C. C. Kirby, first vice-president, presided at the luncheon in the absence of P. A. Rogers, who is out of the city

CANDIDATE MAKES PLATFORM PUBLIC IN CONGRESS RACE

The platform on which Orville Bullington, candidate for congress, is making the race, was made public Thursday. It contains Mr. Bullington's tariff position, as previously set forth by him, and contains other planks as follows:

Legislation furthering co-operative marketing associations, rigid enforcement of all criminal statutes under jurisdictions of U S. courts, intermediate system of farm credits, rigid economy in government affairs and repeal of bonus system for old employes, limiting of army and gave to lowest point consistent with national safety, state rights, opposition to government ownership of railroads, opposition to use of government money of local projects until war debt is paid, refusal of recognition to Mexico until adequate guarantees are given, restriction of immigration except desirable members of immediate families of foreigners already here, land settlement plan for soldiers, opposition to cash bonus plan.

The statement issued by Mr. Bullington seeks to make it plain that he is running as an independent.

BAUM AND GARDNER STOCK TO GO ON SALE SHORTLY

A number of employes of the W. A. Ballard company of Texas were at work Thursday appraising and repricing the stock of the Baum and Gardner company with the view of placing it on sale at extremely low prices in the near future. Baum and Gardner recently filed a voluntary petition of bankruptcy.

The entire stock, consisting of ladies' and men's clothing, shoes and notions will be thrown on the market at bankrupt prices as soon as the inventory is complete

The sale will be managed by H B Hicks and N. Quinn, representatives of the Ballard company.

JUNIOR COLLEGE TO BEGIN NEXT FALL IF ENOUGH ENROLLED

The starting of junior college work as a feature of the ideal educational system will not wait until the new high school building is erected If a sufficient number of graduate students want to start junior college work next fall, provision will be made for them, the school board has decided.

To date 16 students have signified a willingness to go ahead with such work here, and if a large enough number is obtained, the classes will begin next fall. By a year from next fall the new building will be ready, and the students can go ahead with the second year of junior college work.

In making such provision, the board is proceeding on the idea that it will give opportunity to students who might not be able to go away to school to continue their education without interruption.

PROTECTION VERSUS FAIR PLAY

Why Is Wheat Cheap and Flour Dear?

The Pending Republican Protective Tariff Bill Carries a Duty on Wheat Flour of 78 Cents Per Hundred Pounds or $1.56 Per Barrel

One local mill has a daily capacity of 3,500 barrels. When running at full capacity the mill owners would receive protection, or unearned profit, of more than five thousand dollars per day!

Who Pays?

The people pay. This money comes out of the pockets of the people. If this bill goes into effect war prices for bread will again prevail. The cost of living in every home will be raised in direct proportion.

Protection of flour illustrates how the American consumer is being plundered by the manufacturing interests of the country under Republican rule. In 1921 the protection given 29 big industries by the present tariff revenue law cost the people six billion five hundred million dollars—while it turned into the United States treasury less than three hundred million. Under a strictly Republican protective tariff law the present burden will be increased four-fold.

DAILY AVERAGE OIL PRODUCTION IN U. S. 149,540 LAST WEEK

INCREASE IS SHOWN BY SUMMARY PETROLEUM INSTITUTE.

NORTH TEXAS DISTRICT HAS SLIGHT INCREASE

Oklahoma Production Increases While a Falling Off Is Reported From Mexia.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The daily average gross petroleum of the United States was 149,540, totaling 1,411,706 barrels for the week ending April 29, compared with 1,396,756 barrels for the previous week, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum institute.

Oklahoma-Kansas showed a daily average of 456,350 barrels, an increase of 10,650 barrels; north Texas had an increase of 50 barrels; central Texas a decrease of 550 barrels; north Louisiana an increase of 900 barrels, and Arkansas a decrease of 2,300 barrels.

In Oklahoma the production of the Osage nation was 6,100 barrels against 94,500 barrels and output of the Lyons Quinns pool was 48,000 against 42,600. The Mexia pool, central Texas, was reported at 89,500 barrels, against 91,000 barrels; Haynesville, north Louisiana, 44,200 against 42,250.

According to figures collected by the institute the imports of petroleum (crude and refined oils) at the principal United States ports for the week ending April 29 totaled 2,272,340 barrels, a daily average of 234,766 barrels, compared with 2,887,850 barrels, a daily average of 412,850 barrels for the week ending April 22.

RAINFALL AT HASKELL PROVIDES GOOD SEASON

HASKELL, TEXAS, May 3.—The rainfall at Haskell up to the first of April was 2.67 inches and during the month of April 9.43 inches, making to the first of May 12.10 inches rainfall. Thirty one-hundredths of an inch fell during the first day of May.

The most rain to fall in 24 hours time was 2.73 inches while nearly all the rain for the month of April which was 9.43, fell during a period of six days.

The rainfall was slow and steady and to date there are no reports of farm lands having been washed or any crops having been destroyed from heavy downpour.

As the usual rainfall for this territory is some 22 inches per annum, therefore this country has already received more than 50 per cent of the amount due us for 1922.

It is conceded that we will not require very much more to make the usual splendid crops that are made in west Texas when a season such as we have now is in the ground.

RAILROAD PROBLEM FEATURED IN SPEECH OF EARL MAYFIELD

VERNON, TEXAS, May 4.—The autocratic rule of the interstate commerce commission over the railroads of this country is paralyzing business, Earl B Mayfield, candidate for United States senator, told more than 250 Wilbarger county voters Tuesday afternoon. State railroad commissions, by virtue of a decision rendered by the supreme court upholding the constitutionality of the Esch-Cummins bill, are powerless to exert an influence in favor of farmers and merchants, he said.

Mr. Mayfield was frequently interrupted during his talk by thunderous applause, and much favorable comment was heard about town concerning the impression he made upon local voters. He was introduced by Harry Mason, mayor of Vernon.

Texas is paying railroad rates based on a valuation of $58,000 to the mile, he told his audience, when roads in the states are actually worth but $25,000. Mr. Mayfield, who is a member of the state railroad commission, presented an intimate survey of the fight waged by the body of which he is a member, to effect lower freight and passenger rates. He scored the action of the government in providing a guaranteed return on investment for one class of interests at the expense of the people.

In discussing agriculture, the candidate advocated long time loans for farmers and stockmen. He expressed himself as favoring honest markets free from speculation, and revisions in the federal reserve system and federal farm loan banking system.

To effect lower taxes Mr. Mayfield would abolish what he termed as unnecessary government offices. Tax free securities were also severely criticized.

Mr. Mayfield praised the league of nations and world peace. In respect to immigration he declared that this nation is traitor to its heroic dead when it permits an alien to set foot on its shores when one ex-service man is looking for work.

In closing the speaker paid a beautiful tribute to the American flag. His principles of Americanism, as outlined to an audience frequently interrupting with cheers, were in the main an expression of the tenets of the Ku Klux Klan.

THIRTY-NINTH ANNUAL DOANS MAY PICNIC TO BE HELD ON SATURDAY

VERNON, TEXAS, May 4.—Both county and national political office seekers are expected to appear at the 39th Annual Doans May picnic to be held Saturday three miles north of Doans, or about 14 miles north of Vernon. "Candidates Year" is the name given every even year when elections are held.

The Doans picnic has provided the site for the opening of countless political campaigns in years gone by, and county candidates are expected to announce as usual Saturday. Guinn Williams, candidate for congress, has notified friends here that he will speak at the occasion, and S. A. L. Morgan, also in the congressional race, will be there if possible. Other candidates who are aspiring as well to fill the unexpired term of Lucian W. Parrish will have friends on the ground to press claims.

A basket dinner will be spread on the ground by those attending the picnic, and the sumptuous feasts provided other years have helped to make the event renowned throughout this section. C. F. Doan, founder of the picnic, who has never missed the event through all the years, will be chairman of the speakers' meeting.

QUANAH VOTERS RAISE THE SCHOOL TAX TO $1

QUANAH, TEXAS, May 4.—The Quanah independent school district by a vote of 267 to 146 authorized a raise in the local school tax from 50 cents to $1 in an election held Tuesday. W. A. Mosely, O. F. Hood and Ralph Hughes were reelected as trustees.

BALLINGER IS PLANNING FOR FAIR IN SEPTEMBER

BALLINGER, TEXAS, May 4.—Preparations are being made early to make the Runnels county fair to be staged here September 14, 15 and 16 the most successful in its history, according to Stuart L. Williams, secretary. The fair will have the support and aid of the West Texas chamber of commerce. Special prizes will be offered merchants and manufacturers for exhibits. Agriculture, poultry, livestock, automobile and domestic art will each have a department at the exposition.

SHOP CONTRACTS BEFORE RAILROAD LABOR BOARD

CHICAGO, May 4.—Records on the shop contracts controversy between the union shopmen on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas and the railroad were brought before the United States labor board for an investigation into the legality of "farming out" railroad shop work.

The case dates back several weeks to the time when the A. S. Mecker company of Cleveland was awarded a contract to take over all shop work at the road's shops in Parsons, Kan., Denison, Texas, and Sedalia, Mo., where the company's largest shops are maintained.

C. G. McGowen, attorney for the shop crafts, presented numerous communications between the unions and the railroad relating to the contracts. Several union telegrams contained strike threats if the road persisted in contracting the shop work to outside companies.

The unions contend that such "farming out" methods are illegal and merely an effort to escape the jurisdiction of the labor board.

The board took cognizance of the situation last week and ordered both parties to the controversy before it today.

Everyone knows that the Hupmobile maintenance and repair costs are almost unbelievably low, and that the car is particularly free from the need of constant and petty adjustments.

Timely Hitting and Jake Miller's Base Running Give Spudders Victory

DALLAS, May 4.—Jake Miller decided Wednesday that two losses in a row to the Dallas Giants were more than enough so he took matters into his own hands and by daring and clever base running snatched a victory out of the fire in the eighth chapter. When Jake left home plate after driving the agate in the general direction of left field, the count was knotted at four all. Jake's crash would have been a single for anybody except Jake. But he took one of those long chances that are so necessary at times to win ball games and scooted to second. The relay beat him to the middle station, but he made a fancy dive around Ray Falk, and Ray is still trying to tag him. Realizing that he had the Giant infield on edge, he waited for nothing. On the first ball served Fred Beck, he dashed for third and reached the bag in safety. "Caruso" then sent a slow roller at Falk and the latter was so wrought up over what had just transpired that he booted the ball around long enough to enable Jake to score, though he recovered in ample time to get Beck at first. This double of Jake's was his second for the day and he also garnered a single off Cliff Hill, another one of Jim Galloway's forkhanders.

Up to this time the honors of the day had been usurped by "Shorty" Adams and Al White. Skipper Salm shifted his batting order considerably and among the many changes was the placing of Adams in the leadoff position and White in second. Adams' terrific clouting, which has been the feature of the road trip, justified Salm in placing him at the top of the heap. "Shorty" chewed his boss that he made no mistake by putting him in a position where he could collect more base hits, as he delivered two singles and a triple. White followed him in noble fashion and saw to it that every time there was a runner in a position to score when he came he tallied.

Two Homers for Allen.

Dallas was not without its star, however. Pug Allen broke into the calcium on two occasions when he smashed the sphere over the right field barrier for circuit clouts. One man was aboard when he contributed his first, but luckily for the Spudders he alone scored on the second. Had he saved one of his blows until the ninth chapter when he came up with two on and two out, it would have been disastrous for the Salmites, but Bowman put all he had on the ball and forced him to roll to White. His first drive was a prodigious wallop, clearing the skating rink in back of right field as well as the fence.

Salm, as usual, was forced to call upon more than one hurler before the game was over. Ruth was in a jam several times and was withdrawn in the seventh, after he had passed a man and allowed a single before anybody had been retired. Bowman took up the burden and he has his mates to thank for emerging victorious. Tight fielding in the pinches and Miller's work on the paths was all that saved him.

The visitors broke the ice in the second when they tallied once though they filled the bases before a man had been retired. The corners were cinched on a pass to McDonald and infield hits by Miller and Beck. O'Brien hit into a double play, but McDonald scored during its consummation. Kitchens grounded out to the infield for the third out.

There was no more scoring until the sixth, when the Spudders added one more and the home crew tied it up. Adams opened the session with a terrific triple and scored on White's long sacrifice fly. Allen's homer, which followed a pass to Spencer, gave the Giants their two.

Adams and White were responsible for the next two counters chalked up by the Salmites in the seventh. O'Brien walked and stole second with one down and scored on Adams' single. Ruth had drawn a pass and he counted on White's timely hit.

The Giants got one back in this round and incidentally chased Ruth to the showers. A pass to Falk, Stow's single and a double by Wheat accounted for the run.

The manner in which Jake Miller marked up the winning tally has already been narrated.

DEMPSEY WILLING TO MEET WILLARD

Also Expresses Readiness to Meet Winner Of Carpentier-Lewis Go.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, May 4.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, referring to announcements in the United States that arrangements for a bout between him and Jess Willard were progressing favorably, said today he would be glad to meet Willard again. He also was ready to meet the winner of the Carpentier-Lewis bout in London, he declared.

"Sure, I'll be glad to meet Willard again," said Dempsey to the correspondent. "He was once champion and ought to be given a chance to regain the title. Whenever the time, place and conditions are decided I'll be ready to sign up.

"Willard is a good, clean, game fighter and I would enjoy another match with him. I am in fine shape and haven't a doubt that I can easily repeat my victory over Jess.

Dempsey said he intended to sail for New York on the Aquitania May 3.

No-Hit-No-Run Game Against Detroit Puts Rookie in Baseball's Hall of Fame

By BILLY EVANS

Gameness under fire!

That, added to phenomenal control, is the real answer to the no-hit, no-run, not-a-man-reach-first ball game hurled by Charley Robertson, Chicago White Sox rookie, against the Detroit Tigers.

In my many years' experience as an arbiter, I have never umpired a ball game in which a pitcher showed more backbone. If Robertson never pitches another game, his one performance against the Tigers enlies him to go down in history as a hurler with nerves of steel.

It was the rookie's second game as a big league moundsman. Pitted against one of the hardest hitting teams in the history of baseball, he equaled a record held by only two men: Cy Young and Addie Joss.

Away back in 1904 Young, hurling for Boston, trimmed the Athletics in a no-man-reach-first contest, and four years later Joss, Cleveland star, working against Ed Walsh, turned the trick on the Chicago White Sox. Walsh, though defeated, struck out 15 Clevelanders.

Against Sluggers

Robertson's feat, however, is even more remarkable, since the Detroit team of today is a much harder hitting club than were the White Sox or the Athletics of the old days. The Sox, in fact, were then known as the hitless wonders.

The Detroit team led the American league in batting last year with an average well over .300. On the team is Harry Heilman, champ batter of the American league for 1921, and Ty Cobb, runner-up.

In addition, there is Bobby Veach, one of the few remaining sluggers of the old type, and Lu Blue and Bobby Jones, both numbered in the select circle of the .300 hitters.

Against this slugging combination was a recruit pitcher working his second full game as a major leaguer. For that reason Robertson's feat stands out as one of the most remarkable performances in the annals of the game.

And above all, the gameness under fire stands out!

During the last five innings of the game the Detroit team constantly stopped play and insisted the umpires examine the ball. As late as the start of the last half of the ninth, a protest was made that possibly Robertson was doctoring the ball.

Never Faltered

It is possible the Detroit team believed Robertson was profiting through trickery. It is also more probable that the protests were being made to throw the recruit off his stride.

Robertson never faltered. Instead of being upset he seemed to grow better as the game progressed. It is a matter of record that the Detroit club hit the ball much harder in the early innings than after the protest was started.

Robertson is a husky right-hander. He was picked up by the White Sox while pitching for Austin college at Sherman, Texas. He is a graduate of that institute. Last season he was farmed by the Chicago club to Minneapolis to get further experience.

CHARLEY ROBERTSON

SPORT SHOTS by Paul W. Barkin

Harper Released.

Jack Harper has been released by Dallas and there is more than an even chance that he may be seen in a Spudder uniform when the club returns. It is said that his inability to get his arm into shape was responsible for Galloway's action. When he is in shape Jack has a spitter that is practically unbeatable. He would strengthen Salm's staff if his arm isn't injured permanently, but if it is there would be no sense in grabbing him.

McDonald's Ankle Hurt.

Lloyd Weaver came back from Dallas, after taking in Sunday's contest with the information that Tex hurt his ankle so badly in the last Shreveport game that Salm did not decide to use him in the Dallas series until the last moment. It was all Tex could do to hobble around the hot corner

Kitchens Bunged Up.

He also stated that every part of Kitchens' body not covered by his chest protector and shin guards was black and blue from stopping the erratic heaves of the twirlers Frank picked so many out of the dirt and stopped so many on the first bounce Sunday that Lloyd had to stop counting

Ring for Galloway.

Jim Galloway was the recipient of a beautiful diamond ring in the last game. Naturally, he failed to hit safely all day.

Some Crash!

Local fans who have been in the Dallas ball yard can realize how much force must have been behind Pug Allen's drive when it cleared the skating rink in back of the fence. Babe doesn't crack 'em much harder.

City League Games.

Local bugs could do worse Saturday and Sunday than go to Athletic park and see the City league teams perform. The Presbyterains and Bankers are playing Saturday and the Gulf and Railroaders Sunday. The brand of ball played in the City league this season is far superior to that which has been displayed the last couple of years. Every team is well balanced as a result of cutting from eight to six clubs. The league is counting on the receipts of these two games to bear the expense of the season.

Pray for Two.

An even split in the current series with the Panthers will be more *than welcome. It will give the Spud*ders an even break on the road, which was all Salm expected from his hurlers.

Adams Back at Leadoff.

The Spudder skipper now has "Shorty" Adams where he belongs —in the leadoff position. He started in there at the beginning of the season, but his early hitting did not justify his remaining there. His walloping now, however, is second to none. The shift was responsible for one game, at least.

Deals On Tap.

Salm is said to be dickering with three Texas league clubs for hurlers now. There are a couple of clubs who need money worse than pitchers at the present writing and something good is apt to develop The boss also has an outfielder who might well be used in a deal for a pitcher. The sooner the better!

Poor Gassers!

The Gassers can't get over the hum to save their lives. They've lost more games than any other club in the circuit by the slender margin of one run and usually send their opponents into the ninth round before losing.

Jack and Jess.

See Jack and Jess have been matched by the publicity agents again. Dempsey has been matched with every heavyweight in this country and abroad on paper, but he's just as far away from a bout as he has been since whipping Carpentier. There are several who would give him more fight than Willard.

YANKEES LONG FOR RUTH AND MEUSEL

Loss Of Last Four Out of Five Costs Lead in Race and Worries Gotham.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The Yankees are finding the going in the American league race rougher than they did during the first two or three weeks. Dropping four out of their last five games has cost the Mugmen the lead, though only by a scant margin, and apparently upset the machine of the Champions. Anxious eyes are being cast toward May 20 when Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel return from exile to add a punch to the Yankees' attack.

Unable to shake off the evil spell that Eddie Rommell, the Athletic star twirler, has held over them, the New Yorkers lost the first game of the series in Philadelphia 4 to 2, the home crew hitting Hoyt's curves when hits meant runs.

The Giants took some of their own medicine from Boston, McQuillan holding the McGrawmen safe while his mates were masticating Nehr, Virgil Barnes and Pat Shea, winning 9 to 1. Boeckel led the assault with four hits, including a double and homer.

The St. Louis Cardinals nosed Cincinnati out in the ninth 6 to 5, after the Reds had tied the score in their half of the inning with three tallies, driving Doak from the box.

Veteran Jack Quinn aided the splendid support by his Boston teammates handed Washington a 8 to 0 defeat and in addition drove in three runs with his double in the sixth.

SILVER JUBILEE OF FATHER BONIFACE HELD WEDNESDAY

IS PRESENTED WITH CHECK FOR $1500 AS PARTING GIFT OF FRIENDS.

SEVERAL PAY TRIBUTE TO WORK IN THIS CITY

Musical and Literary Program Precedes Farewell Ceremony at Theater.

By FRANK S REID

A very delightful program was held at the Wichita theater Wednesday afternoon in honor of the silver jubilee of Father Boniface, who is leaving the city for a much needed rest and travel in Europe, and upon his return to take up his duties in another parish

The first part of the program was of a musical nature, the numbers being arranged by students and the Sisters of the Academy of Mary Immaculate Special mention might be made of the pleasing address by Miss Katherine Sullivan, recitation and song by Miss Ruth Harrison and chorus and the farewell number.

After the musical program, J L McMahon, in a delightful address, presented Father Boniface a draft for $1,500 from Wichita Falls people in recognition of the love and esteem he is held by the community, non-Catholic, Jew and Gentile as well as those members of his parish. Father Boniface responded.

'The token you have given me is a token in cold cash and represents warm hearts. I will remember you for good. I have spent five years of toilsome labor among you, but this labor was gratifying because I had the whole-hearted co-operation of my congregation. May I be excused from pride when I say that we have done great things in the five years, but it was due to our co-operation, not one, not the other but the two powers working hand to hand. I will ever retain a warm spot in my heart for Wichita Falls and the Sacred Heart parish of this city. Wherever I may be my prayers will go up to God for the friends and parishioners I leave behind. I can say with gladness, 'Lord, five talents has thou entrusted to me; I have gained five more,' for the congregation of the Sacred Heart today has more than doubled itself, yes, trebled and more than that Wherever I may be on my trip to various places, I will put in a word for my former parishioners of Wichita Falls

Judge Kay was then called upon for an address, and in his charming manner spoke of Father Boniface and his work His opening remarks were based on the story of the Irish friend who was going away, and in bidding his friends good-bye at a meeting he said "I am glad to see so many of you here to welcome me going away.' Continuing, Judge Kay said

"There are many touching things in the life of a priest He comes to a place and he says this is good air this is a good town; there are good people, the trees are green and the flowers bright, and here I will make my home, but the Master says otherwise so that he must be continually in the attitude of the children of the Crusade, moving from one place to another, so no priest or preacher can pick his town and say to himself 'This is Jerusalem and this is my home,' because he has no abiding city. What does it mean to you and me when the ministers of God lay aside means that might make success in many avenues of life; lose their opportunities as we call them, almost lose their identity in order that they might serve humanity? It is a consecration for which the most of us have no conception, and how does the church work? The church does not work indiscriminately The church can only work and thrive where conditions are favorable, it is one of the fundamental doctrines of the Catholic church to work through human agencies. Have you supported your pastor like you should? Have you been a devout, faithful, consecrated member devoted to the service of the Master? If that is true, the work of the preacher is easy and his burden is light; otherwise not. The only time the Savior stood naked and helpless was in the presence of the fig tree In his going away I would not ask that he go into a primrose path, but that he may come into the presence of suffering and of need and hear the great heart beat of the world in its desire to know the life of the church"

Ex-Mayor Walter Cline spoke fittingly of Father Boniface as a neighbor of his. Though coming from Methodist stock, friend Cline could not help but pay warm respects to Father Boniface for his feeling as a neighbor and friend

"We are all working for one aim regardless of creed, and it is time to lay aside propaganda talk and get down to business and make this country a place worth while spiritually and otherwise"

The Rt. Rev Joseph P Lynch, bishop of Dallas, spoke very fittingly of Father Boniface and 'Americanism" He is a brilliant talker and thinker and left many good thoughts. We quote in part

"We are very glad to assemble here this afternoon—Catholic, non-Catholic, Jew and Gentile—to hear tribute to an eternal truth long ago recognized that the golden thread of moral trend must be woven through a coarse fibre in order that cultural life may bless home and nation." Rev Lynch spoke of the part the Catholics played in the history of America—Clark, Washington, Rochambeau, and the leading events of American history that have made the United States of America the leading nation of the world today.

"And why all these historical facts?" declared the bishop. "That there might arise a number of states where there would be government by law and not by the whims of men, where there might be liberty without license and authority without autocracy. This is the type of Americanism you and I stand for The priest of the hour, and our honorable friend, stand for these traditions, the ideals, the inspirations that were begotten by our ancestors in the long ago, and it is on this occasion that I am glad to come here, I am glad to meet you one and all."

Father Boniface is leaving this community respected by all non-Catholic people as well as those of his parish. He has been untiring in his efforts in many things and certainly the well wishes of the citizens of Wichita Falls go with him on his journey.

APRIL PROVES THE WETTEST MONTH IN PAST NINE YEARS

Last month proved to be the wettest month in Wichita Falls in the past 11 years, according to old time residents of the city. A total of 8.7 inches of rainfall was recorded during the 30 days, during which time the majority of the days were cloudy.

According to older residents of the city the only month that equaled this April was June of 1913 when the wheat and other crops rotted in the fields on account of incessant rains which produced for the month approximately 10 inches

SHRINERS TO GIVE AWAY AUTOMOBILE AT FINAL PERFORMANCE OF SHOW

Announcement is made by Harry Baum, chairman of the ticket committee for the Shrine minstrels, which is to take place at the Wichita theater on the nights of May 11 12 and 13, that the committee has decided to give away an automobile on the night of the final performance of the show

Mr Baum stated that the Shriners were anxious to show the people of Wichita Falls that they appreciated the generous support which has been given almost every effort of Maskat Temple, and that a brand new car would bear witness to the fact. Just how the car is to be given away was not explained, but the automobile is placed at Tipton's drug store for the incredulous to see

Harry further states that the minstrels which, by the way, are not by any means the popular idea of a minstrel show, will figuratively bring down the house, in appreciation of the extreme novelty of the arrangement of the settings, and at the rare comedy lines which will be a part of the ensembles of the two acts.

Eighty-five local people are nightly rehearsing in the ball room of the Kemp hotel, and it is anticipated that this will prove the greatest home talent show ever in the history of the city. The production is being staged under the direction of Lewis L. Lacey, whose "Oh Joy Musical Revue" with the Shriners last year was a great success.

TRIES TO RESCUE ARRESTED FRIEND, IS JAILED HIMSELF

What officers described as an attempted jail delivery was frustrated at the city hall late Wednesday night and as a result of the affair a young man was sent to the county jail where charges of interfering with officers are to be lodged against him

The trouble started with the arrest of a man alleged to have been intoxicated He was taken in custody at Sixth and Indiana by Patrolman Graham and a bottle of whiskey found on his person according to the officer's report While being locked up at the city hall a friend appeared, accosted Graham and his prisoner just as the latter was being placed in a cell, and attempted, it is said, to pull him loose from the policeman's grasp

The intervenor was locked up for the night and arraigned in police court Thursday morning, later being sent to the county officials. A $10 fine was assessed against the original cause of all the rumpus.

STEEL FOR BRIDGE SPANNING HOLIDAY CREEK IS AT SITE

PAVING CLAY COUNTY ROAD TO BEGIN NEXT MONDAY BY CONTRACTORS.

OPERATIONS TO START AT THE COUNTY LINE

Contractors Seek More Trucks to Assist in Hauling Material to the Mixer.

The steel for the bridge which will span Holliday creek on the Henrietta road has arrived and Reid and Costley, the contractors, have hauled it to the scene. The bridge will be completed by the last of the coming week, it is stated.

The Tibbets Construction company will begin operations in the paving of the road next Monday morning, according to present plans and the paving will start at the Clay county line towards the city. The contractors are seeking more trucks to assist in the hauling of material to the mixers.

The railroad spur is complete and all the machinery of the contractors is on the ground. The cement house has been completed and the sand trip has been installed.

The first setting of the mixer will be from the county line to the point where the Denver railroad crosses the road. When this stretch is completed the mixer will be moved to the city limits and will pave from the city to the railroad

In carrying out the wish of the county commissioners when the contract for the road was let, the contractors have brought with them only a skeleton organization and the remainder of the men will be employed or have been employed from the ranks of the citizens of this county.

The contractors also did not bring all their trucks and are attempting to give men with trucks who are out of work an opportunity to be engaged.

WITNESS SAYS SHE WAS TOLD BY PHONE TO LEAVE COUNTY

The prosecuting witness in the case against W. T. Drake, local produce salesman testified that Thursday morning before she went to the court house that she received a telephone message in which she was told it would be best to leave the city and county and that if she did not have the money that it would be brought to her. She expressed the belief that it was the defendant's voice.

Drake was indicted by the special grand jury of the 78th district court on a charge of aggravated assault. The alleged offense is said to have been committed on or about March 4, 1922.

The allegations set forth and as testified to by the prosecutrix, the defendant represented to her that he was a city officer and that he wore badge No. 30. Under threats of being taken to the city hall after he had gone to the telephone to call the patrol, the alleged offense is said to have been committed.

The prosecutrix is house keeper in a local hotel.

RECOVERY OF ALLEGED ASSETS SOUGHT BY TRUSTEE

M. E. Stevens, trustee in bankruptcy of L. D. Winder, formerly in the feed and coal business at Bowie, is seeking the return of certain alleged assets which he complains are being held by the Bowie State bank. The case is on trial in the United States district court, having begun Thursday morning.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Realizing caused some irregularity in cotton at the opening today, first prices being steady at an advance of eight points on August, but generally unchanged at six points lower. On the whole, however, local brokers reported very few contracts offering as compared with the extent of buying on recent advances, and the market soon turned firm on the steady showing of the cables, firmer sterling exchange rates and private reports of rains in Oklahoma. July sold up to 19.16 and October 19.26 with the general list showing net advances of 12 to 18 points.

The advance was checked at 19.20 for July by realizing and there was probably some selling for a reaction. Prices eased off 15 to 25 points in consequence, but the market steadied up again toward midday on reports of rains at several Texas points

Early afternoon bulges after the detailed weather report showing a good deal of rain in the south met renewed realizing and the market was rather unsettled around 2 o'clock July contracts at the same time were selling around 18.95 and December 19.13 or about 6 to 8 points net lower

The market closed barely steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—Indifferent cables resulted in a drop of 4 to 8 points on the opening of the cotton market today but continued weather in the belt almost immediately stimulated general buying and a sharp rally occurred. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 16 to 18 points higher than the finals of yesterday July advanced to 18.67 and October to 18.77.

The advance was checked by the forecast of clearing weather for the greater part of the western half of the cotton region and enough selling, chiefly from realizing longs, came on the market to cause small declines. At 11 o'clock prices were 6 to 13 points higher than the close of yesterday with July at 18.60

Realizing increased to a marked extent and larger offerings came from traders who thought a reaction was due In the trading up to 12:30 o'clock prices were sent 16 to 27 points under the last quotation of yesterday to 18.34 for July

The cotton market closed steady at a decline of 16 to 25 points

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, May 4.—Wheat prices declined this morning, some pressure to sell being occasioned by downturns in Liverpool quotations Besides, talk was current that May trades here were being evened up quite rapidly. De liveries on any contract this morning of 150,000 bushels were announced. There were receipts in Chicago today of 140 car loads of wheat. The opening, which ranged from ½c to 1c lower, with May $1.44 to $1.44¼ and July $1.28¾ to $1.28¾, was followed by material further declines.

Later the May option became irregular and was easily influenced by any buying or selling, at one time rallying to above yesterday's finish. Exporters became free buyers of July wheat on the early declines but this failed to influence the market to any extent and the finish was with a rather heavy undertone with a majority of the local element inclined to the bear side The close was weak at a net loss of 1¼ to 1½c from yesterday's finish with May $1.42½ to $1.42¾ and July $1.27 to $1.27¼.

Corn and oats were easier with wheat. Corn started unchanged to ¼c lower, and later showed a little setback all around

There was a good demand for corn in evidence but the market moved within relatively narrow limits Reports said that country offerings from Iowa gradually were increasing as spring work is making rapid progress. The finish was weak with prices unchanged to ¼c lower with July 65½ to 66c.

Oats opened 8c lower to a shade advance, July 40½ to 40¾c, and then rallied a trifle.

A big decrease in western stocks of meats together with higher hogs led to a sharp upturn in provisions

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 4.—Profit taking in some of the oils which featured yesterday's rise caused moderate unsettlement of prices at the opening of today's stock market. Standard Oil of California eased 1½ points and the New Jersey issue reacted fractionally. On the other hand Mexican oils, which did not participate in yesterday's movement, were firm, as were also Cosden, Houston and Producers and Refiners. Secondary motors extended their recent gains. Mercantile Marine preferred, American Woolen and Brooklyn Rapid Transit were higher by fractions to 1 point. Rails reflected moderate pressure, especially Chicago and Eastern Illinois common and preferred.

Repurchases of stocks sold for the short account in the general list became large following excited buying of the investment shares. Low priced members of the group were also in favor and the market took a tone of greater confidence. General Asphalt, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Houston Oil and Pacific Oil were market up 2 to 3 points. American woolen, LaClede Gas, Canadian Pacific, Texas and Pacific and Rock Island were also conspicuous in the afternoon advance.

The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 1,375,000 shares.

DOG CATCHER DISCHARGED; DUE TO MISUNDERSTANDING

Ed Likings, who has been employed by the city for several weeks as dog catcher, was discharged by Chief of Police McCormick Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Likings, in a statement Thursday, said that his charge was due to a misapprehension on the part of Chief McCormick, but that he would make no effort for reinstatement.

"I want to apologize to the good people of Wichita Falls for having been a dog catcher and for catching dogs and collecting taxes," said Mr. Likings. "I am glad that I have been relieved of my duties."

BIG CROWD ATTENDS ROUND-UP'S OPENING GETS MANY THRILLS

Broncs that resented the weight of the saddle and the pressure of the rider's knee; steers that yielded resentfully, if at all, to those who sought to ride them or to subdue them; calves that fretfully resisted the lariat's snare and the roper's hands; riders and ropers who showed themselves masters of their arts; color and crowd and noise and thrill; these combined, Wednesday afternoon, to make the opening performance of the fourth annual roundup an occasion of excitement, of action and of brilliance.

Twice it seemed that man's agility and cleverness were overmatched, and the big, ominously gray ambulance drew up alongside the corral; but each time it failed to get a passenger. Soapy Williams, hurling himself from his horse to bulldog a fast moving steer, went down with the animal in a sickening heap from which the human part did not get up for a while. John Hartwig, unable to maintain his seat on the unstable deck of a wild steer, was thrown and then kicked by the beef, and he too, lay very still for a moment. But neither was badly hurt, it developed, and the afternoon ended with no further mishap.

Slim Caskey, Wichita Falls boy, who was expected to set a mark for the others in the bulldogging, failed to make as good time as some of the other contestants. Making a wonderful leap from his mount he lost time in bringing the beef to the ground, but he displayed a form that will put him in the money if he keeps it up on the remaining two days.

The program began promptly on time with the introduction of the notables, and then the fancy roping started.

Chester Byers, Tom Kirnan and Bob Calen vied with one another in manipulation of the loops, going through a dazzling series of tricks that won hearty applause. Fred Clancy, a youngster in his early teens, asked no odds of the older men.

The first bronc riding was the next event, with Ruth Roach and Fox Hastings on the hurricane decks. Each maintained her seat easily and cleverly.

A bit of by-play by Red Sublette and a trick mule followed, and then the cowboys' bronc riding was staged. The first was Dave White on Triangle Paint, the latter giving about as good an exhibition of meanness as the afternoon produced. Headlight, ridden by Kenneth Cooper, proved the same hard fighting sorrel as of yore. Romeo, booked to be ridden by Charlie Garcia, disposed of that rider before the chute trap was sprung and when Soapie Williams, who had a hard day of it all around, attempted to sit Romeo, the saddle was soon emptied. Double Heart, with John Henry up, was another mean one, and Flashlight, no stranger here, gave Buck Lucas a plenty before the whistle blew. It was a qualifying round for the bronc riders, and more than one pulled leather too soon.

The calf roping was rather below par, although the afternoon's best time, 31 seconds, scored by Ben Johnson, wasn't bad. Unschooled horses gave several ropers some trouble, one of them dragging the calf across the field after it had been tied. It was a relief to the spectators when the calf got up unhurt after being released, bawling peevishly at such unethical conduct. Several calves eluded the loops successfully, and others kept their limbs free of the tying ropes long enough to thoroughly disgust the ropers.

The trick riding was participated in by both cowboys and cowgirls, who staged a variety of clever and entertaining stunts that showed a fine disregard for the laws of gravitation. Tom Burnett presented each of the girl contestants with a handsome bouquet.

Then came the bulldogging. The first bulldogger, Fred Atkinson, set a mark for the others to shoot at when a quick leap and an expert twist brought the steer down in 13 2-5 seconds. The beef that Yakima Canutt tackled charged the arena fence, breaking several planks; another unruly steer gave Duffey Mapes, photographer, a bit of excitement. Dick Kirnan broke the horn from his steer and the resulting gore made it look tragic until the crowd realized that it wasn't human blood. Roy Quick and the steer with which he grappled took a spectacular and scary head over heels tumble, but the beef got away before it was bulldogged. Slim Caskey and Dave White made beautiful jumps from their mounts, but had hard luck in bringing the steers down in the prescribed manner.

The wild steer riding furnished the most action of the afternoon. Several riders were thrown and none had an easy time in keeping his seat.

Bovopolous, the extra wild steer, ribbed the crowd up to expect something extra, as he tried to climb the paddock gate and acted real mean all around. But it was comparatively tame when Hartwig did mount him. Bovie promptly deposited the would-be rider on the turf and trotted sullenly away.

Another big crowd gathered Thursday afternoon for the second day's program. The third and final program will be held Friday.

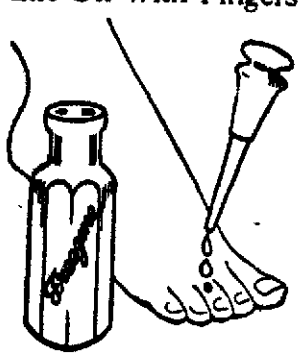
Lift Off with Fingers



Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly, you lift it right off with fingers. True!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the callouses, without soreness or irritation. (Adv.)

BULLINGTON SPEAKS TO LARGE AUDIENCE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Reiterating that his candidacy for congress is that of an independent and not a republican, Orville Bullington, latest entry in the race for the unexpired term, addressed a large and sympathetic crowd at the Wichita theatre Wednesday evening. His address, which dealt almost entirely with the tariff and the soldier bonus, was along the lines he followed when he spoke before the University club last Tuesday noon.

Mr. Bullington replied rather vigorously to newspaper advertisements attacking his candidacy and referred to the advertisement writer as a "smart aleck." The advertisement in question had referred to the candidate as a "wooden horse," and Mr. Bullington intimated that he would prove to be a race horse instead.

Former District Judge Ed Scurry introduced the speaker as "a man who has proved successful and foursquare in every undertaking and in every station."

Declaring Andrew Jackson to have been the real founder of the democratic party, Mr Bullington quoted lengthily from that president's messages in support of protective doctrines. He declared that a liberal measure of protection was essential to the prosperity of the farmer, and insisted that such a doctrine was a true democratic doctrine.

Mr Bullington again expressed himself as against a cash bonus, suggesting that a land allotment program would be just as beneficial to the veterans and far less burdensome to the country.

Reefless houses met them, stacks of crumpled snow, where the beams had cracked beneath the weight of high piled drifts; staring, glassless windows and rooms filled with white. Gloomily Houston surveyed the desolate picture, at last to turn to the girl.

"I must go on. I gave my promise."

She nodded

"It means Tollifer now. The descent is more dangerous."

Suddenly the storm lifted for a moment. Far below, miles in reality, straight jets of steam rose high above black, curling smoke; faintly, distantly, whistles sounded. The snowplows!

He gripped her arm with the sight of it, nor did she resist. Thrilled, enthralled, they watched it; the whirling smoke, the shooting steam, the white spray which indicated the grinding, churning progress of the plows, propelled by the heavy engines behind. From the swollen lips of Houston:

"They've started the fight! I'm going to work with them."

"But—"

He knew what she meant and shook his head.

"No—she does not need me. My presence would mean nothing to her. I can't tell you why. My place—is down there."

For an instant Medaine Robinette looked at him with frankly questioning eyes, eyes which told that a question was arising as to his guilt in at least one of the things which circumstances had arrayed against him. But suddenly she was speaking, as though to divert her thoughts

"We'll have about three hours. It's our chance. We'd better cut this cord—the one in the lead may fail and pull the other one over. We'd better make haste"

Houston stepped before her. A moment later they were edging their way down the declivity of what once had been a railroad track.

Black dots they became—dots which appeared late in the afternoon to the laboring crews of the snow-fighters far below; dots edging their way about beetling precipices, plunging forwrad, the stopping; pulling themselves out of the heavier drifts, where, drops of 10 and even 20 feet had thrown them. Once, at the edge of an overhanging ledge, he scrambled furiously, failed and fell—to drop in a drift fa rbelow, to scrawl painfully back to the waiting dot above Hours! The dots grew larger On they came, stumbling, reeling. The woman wavered and fell, he caught her. Then double-weighted, a pack on his back, a form in his arms, he came on, his blood-red eyes searching almost sightlessly the faces of the waiting, stolid, grease-smeared men, his thick voice drooling over bloody lips:

"Somebody take her—get her into the bunk cars. She's given out I'm—I'm all right. Take care of her. I've got to go on—to Tollifer"

CHAPTER XIX

It was night when Barry Houston limped, muscles cramped and frost-numbed, into the little undertaking shop at Tollifer and deposited his tiny burden. Medaine Robinette had remained behind in the care of the snow crews.

"Nameless," he said with an effort, when the lengthy details of certification were asked "The mother—" and a necessary lie came to his lips—"became unconscious before she the baby had been baptized. She could tell me anything except that wanted a priest."

From far away came the whistles of locomotives, answering the signals of the snow-plows ahead He remembered the bulky cars of machinery at Tollifer It was partially his battle they were fighting out there. He fumbled aimlessly in his pockets for his gloves Something tinkled on the floor and he bent to pick up the little crucifix with its twisted, tangled chain, forgotten at Tollifer. Dully, hazily, he stared at it with his red eyes, with the faint feeling of a duty neglected. Then:

"She only said they might want it," he mumbled. "I'm sorry—I should have remembered. I'm always failing—at something"

Then, anxious to take his place in the fighting line, he replaced the tiny bit of gold in his pocket and threaded his way through the circuitous tunnel of snow.

Even from the distance, Barry could hear the surge of the terrific impact, as the rotary smashed against the tight-jammed contents of the shed, snarled and tore at its enemy, then, beaten at last by the crusted ice on the rails, came grudgingly back so that the crews might break the ice from the rails and give traction for another assault. Houston started forward, only to stop A figure in the cook car caught his eye. Medaine Robinette.

If the woman back there in the west country only would tell! If she would only keep the promise which she had given him in her half-delirium!

Ten minutes later Barry stood beside a great Mallet engine, a sleek, grayhound of the mountains, taking

"Know anything about firin' an instructions from the superintendent. engine?"

"I know enough to shovel coal—and I've got a strong pair of shoulders"

"When you get in them gas pockets, stick your nose in the hollow of your elbow. There ain't no fresh air in that there shed; the minute these engines get inside and start throwin' on the juice, it fills up with smoke. That's what gets you.

Barry climbed to his place on the engine. A whistle sounded, to be echoed and reechoed by the answering blasts of the snowplow train—four engines and the big auger itself—ready now for a fresh sally into the shed. Throttles open, fire boxes throwing their red, spluttering glare against the black sky as firemen leaped to their task, the great mass of machinery moved forward.

Faster—faster—then the impact, like crashing into a stone wall. They were within the snowshed now, the auger boring and tearing and snarling like some savage, vengeful thing against the solid mass which faced it. Inch by inch for eight feet it progressed; then progress ceased, while the plow ahead shrilled the triple signal to back up. The engineer opened the cab window and gratefully sucked in the fresh, clean air.

"Eight feet—that's all," he mused. "Eight feet at a time."

Back and forth—back and forth—fresh air and foul air—gleaming lights, then dense blackness—so the hours passed. Sally after sally the snowplow made. Men fell groveling, only to be dragged into the open air and resuscitated, then sent down once more into the cruelty of the fight. The hours dragged by like stricken things. Then—with dawn—the plow churned with lesser impact. It surged forward. Gray light broke through at the end of the tunnel. The grip of at least one snowshed was broken; but there remained twenty more—and the Death Trail—beyond!

The day crew carried the fight on

"Somebody take her—get her into the bunk cars. She's given out."

snowsheds, at last to halt at the long, curved affair which shielded the jutting edge of Mount Taluchen.

The second and third nights were a repetition of the first.

Tonight was the last night, the last either in the struggle or in the lives of those who had fought their way upward to the final barricade which yet separated them from the top of the world—the Death Trail.

Smooth and sleek it showed before Houston in the early moonlight, an icy Niagara, the snow piled high above the railroad tracks. Already the plows were assembled. This was to be the fight of fights, there in the moonlight. A quick shoot and a lucky one. Otherwise—the men who went forward to their engines would not speak of it. But there was no one who did.

She was standing beside the cook car as Houston passed.

"You'll be with them?"

"On the Death Trail? I expect to"

"They talk of it as something terrible. Why?"

Houston pointed to the forbidding wall of snow. His thick, broken lips mumbled in the longest speech he had known in days.

"It's all granite up there. The cut of the railroad forms a base for the remainder of the snow When we cut out the foundation—they're afraid that the vibration will loosen the rest and start an avalanche It all depends whether it comes before—or after we've passed through"

She straightened and looked at him with clear, frank eyes. "Mr. Houston," came quietly, "I've been thinking about something all day I have felt that I haven't been quite fair—that a man who has acted as you have acted since—since I met you this last time—that he deserves more of a chance than I have given him That——"

"I'm asking nothing of you, Miss Robinette."

"I know. I am asking something of you. I want to tell you that I have been hoping that you can some day furnish me the proof—that you spoke of once. I—that's what I ly and extended her hand. "Goodby. wanted to tell you," she ended quickly. "I'll be praying for all of you up there."

Houston answered only with a pressure of his hand. He looked at her with eyes that spoke what his tongue could not say, then he went on—a shambling, dead-tired man, even on awaking from sleep, but a man whose heart was beating with a new fervor. She would be praying for all of them up there at the Trail. And all of them included him.

At the cab of the engine, he listened to the final instructions of the cursing, anxious superintendent, then went to his black work of the shovel. Higher and higher mounted the steam on the gauge: theirs was the first plow, theirs the greatest task. One by one the final orders came—crisp, shouted, cursing commands, answered in kind. Then the last query:

"If there's a damn man of you who's a coward, step out! Hear that? If you're afraid—come on there's no stopping once you start!"

Engine after engine answered, in jeering, sarcastic tones, the belligerent cries of men hiding what pounded in their hearts, driving down by sheer will-power the primitive desires of self-preservation. Again the call was repeated. Again it was answered by men who snarled, men who cursed that they might not pray. And with it

"A-w-w-w-w—right! Let 'er go!"

Why Be "Skinny"

When It's So EASY to Increase Your Weight This New Way

New Scientific Process Embodied in IRONIZED YEAST Enables Many Thin, Nervous, Run-down Folks to Gain 5 to 9 Pounds on First Package

NO matter how thin you may be—no matter how long you have been trying to put on weight—no matter how many different preparations you may have tried without results—you owe it to yourself to learn of the real benefits that IRONIZED YEAST holds for you. For thin folks to gain five to nine pounds on the very first package is not at all unusual. Pimples and other humiliating skin eruptions usually completely disappear within 14 days. And as for creating new energy, seeming miracles are reported by people who were once nervous, weak and run-down. And all because IRONIZED YEAST embodies an amazing process—a process which enables yeast to bring its wonderful results often in just half the usual time!

What Is The Secret?

While science admits that yeast alone is good, experiments prove that it is not enough, in itself, to bring 100% results. For although yeast contains certain mysterious elements which have a wonderful effect on our health, it needs some other agent in order to quickly convert these vital elements into rosy cheeks, firm flesh and rugged strength.

Iron, Science tells us, is of high value in changing the food we eat into living cells and tissue. So working on this problem, our chemists finally discovered the amazing process of ironization. It is this process which enables you to derive from yeast ALL of the splendid benefits it holds for you.

Superior — Therefore Imitated

You are cautioned against accepting cheap inferior imitations of IRONIZED YEAST, which in most cases are merely mixtures of ordinary yeast and iron. The remarkable process of ironization is embodied only in IRONIZED YEAST, the one scientifically correct yeast treatment. Always insist upon the genuine IRONIZED YEAST. It is the only way you can be sure of getting the best.
